WALL STREET'S little lambs felt the chill of winter yesterday. Benevolent managers of high finance, to save little people from "foolish gambling" when it is too late, raised "call money" to 12 per cent.

If foolish gambling by the public allows banks and the Federal Reserve to go too far in the direction of criminal usury, there may be quite a smash.

MR. MELLON, who knows about money, ought to look into that and probably will. Promoted clerks in the Federal Reserve mean well, and are glad to give the banks a chance to make a little dishonest money. But there is such a thing as going too far.

PHYSICIANS watching bulletins issued by King George's doctors find it difficult to say exactly what they mean. Royal doctors must be as optimistic as they dare to help Britain's Christmas trade, at the same time protecting their own reputations.

Unfortunately, the most accurate diagnosis probably is that of insurance companies that now refuse to insure the King's life, even at 90 per cent for three weeks.

"INFECTION in the lungs" is the trouble. The thin wall that separates the King's lungs from doctors watching him is a more effective barrier than the great wall of China.

At the Rockefeller Institute in New York, Dr. Carrel opens the lung cavity of a dog, removes a piece of lung tissue, theoretically diseased, and an hour later the dog is as well as ever. Ordinarily, atmospheric pressure would cause collapse of the lung and death at opening of the lung cavity. Carrel's assistants pump air into the wind-pipe at a pressure equal to atmospheric pressure. The dog doesn't suffer, by the way, feels nothing.

But you can't experiment on a king.

SCIENTISTS study fishes that live a mile below the ocean surface. Bring them to the top, removing water pressure, and they burst and die.

Human beings live at the bottom of an atmospheric ocean, 500 miles deep. If you took us to the top we probably should burst, and we should die surely. Man cannot live 10 miles up, to say nothing of 500 miles.

WE PITY the poor, submerged deep sea fish, leading such dull lives. They would pity the submerged poor among human beings.

Science says all of earth's life was once in the ocean. Some animals climbed on the land, developed lungs in place of the fish's bladder, ears in place of gills. Men were included in that migration to land. Other animals, even more ambitious, learned to fly—the birds.

AMONG human beings a few, birdlike, fly above the level of necessity to the realms of wealth. Once they get there, they, like the birds, are safe. But, like the birds, they don't do much thinking. They don't have to think.

GERMANY likes new ideas. German girls go into athletics in scanty clothing. Societies and health farms exist here and there, in Germany and other parts of Europe, where clothing is barred entirely.

But there is a limit and it was reached at Frankfort when actors showed the ruler of the universe dressed in "plus fours" or knickerbockers. The play was endured in Berlin and other cities, but Frankfort's audience threw stench bombs in the theater, disturbing the actors.

Hamlet in "plus fours" and a tuxedo was bad enough. But man, made in the image of his maker, should not seek to degrade his maker to his own level, even on the stage.

A DEVICE demonstrated by a New Jersey inventor sets type on a typesetting machine by wire. No hand touches the machine.

This will worry typesetters, but probably it need not.

When the typesetting machine came in printers thought they were ruined. They make more now than they ever made setting type by hand.

MR. BROUN, known the world over as the recalcitrant stormy petrel of thought, quarrels with President Coolidge because the President speaks of good will between nations, then asks for 15 cruisers.

That's not inconsistent. The other nations know that we can get the 15 cruisers, and 50 if we want them. And that creates "the good will."

BROUN asks, "Is a man who goes out into the world armed only with faith more timid than he who carries weapons?" Of course he is. Look at the rabbit. He carries no weapon, and is more timid than the lion or wolf, that has a mouthful of weapons.

You can't be truly courageous, unless you are wise. And if you are wise, you keep prepared.

LET stocks go up, let stocks go down, a seat on the stock exchange is valuable. One sold yesterday for $595,000. Buying or selling, the wise broker can make money, which is more than you can say for the frisky lamb.

SHOWDOWN ON LAW PRESSED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—A "wet" challenge to raise prohibition law enforcement appropriations to $250,000,000 or more a year and to send agents into every nook and corner of the land to "dry up the country" was thrown into the congressional arena today, aimed at the drys.

The move was scheduled to be translated into formal action by the offering of amendments to the treasury-postoffice bill, sections of which carry $13,500,000 for the prohibition bureau in 1930 and over $14,000,000 for coast guard anti-smuggling work.

Representative La Guardia (Rep.) of New York, a militant wet, was prepared to offer the amendment with the backing of others of the "wet bloc" of the House.

DRYS FIGHT PLAN

Dry leaders, however, apparently well satisfied with the present prohibition enforcement by federal authorities, planned to resist any such proposal.

La Guardia was backed in his effort by the statement of Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran that it would cost $360,000,000 a year for the government to take over all police work in connection with prohibition. A vast extension of the Federal Court system also would be required.

"Formerly the drys said that the wets were hampering enforcement by withholding sufficient appropriations; now the shoe is on the other foot," said La Guardia.

"The drys have come to realize the impossibility of enforcing the act, and they are afraid

Father Feels Sure "Hexing" Will Save Blymer

YORK, Pa., Dec. 7.—Emanuel Blymer, father of John Blymer, 32, the latter held as one of the three who killed Nelson D. Rehmeyer, farmer, is certain no harm will come to his son.

John, he said, is a doctor of witchcraft, the fourth in as many generations of the Blymer family, and his "hexing" powers will protect him from punishment.

Rehmeyer was killed, according to the confessions of the younger Blymer, Wilbert Hess, 17, and John Curry, 14, because Blymer needed a lock of the farmer's hair to remove a spell which enemies had cast upon the Hess farm.

FIREMAN SAVES GIRL, FAMILIES FLEE FLAMES

Five families in the Homewood and Lincoln avenue districts were routed from their homes by fire early today. One person was overcome by smoke.

Shirley Glass, 6, of 1406 Lincoln avenue, was carried from her second-floor home, partly overcome by smoke, by Fire Captain Charles Frank, when flames broke out in the basement. She was revived by Capt. Frank, of Engine Company No. 28. The flames, which spread to an adjoining building, occupied by the variety store of Shirley's father, Saul T. Glass, were first discovered about midnight. About 8 o'clock this morning firemen were called back to the scene when the flames broke out anew. The first floor of 1406 Lincoln avenue is occupied by the cleaning and dyeing establishment of S. J. Scrima.

Fourteen persons were driven from their homes when flames, starting in the New York restaurant, 803 North Homewood avenue,

BRITISH RULER HAS RESTFUL NIGHT

By HARRY R. FLORY.
International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—It was understood at Buckingham Palace today that King George had passed a fairly comfortable night.

A favorable medical bulletin on his condition was issued at 11:30 a. m. today. It follows:

"The King had a restful sleep and his general strength is maintained. Further investigations of the right side of the chest will be undertaken during the day."

Palace officials stated also that they believed the improvement in the King's condition, mentioned in yesterday's bulletins, was being maintained.

X-RAY TAKEN

X-Ray pictures were taken of the right side of the King's chest this afternoon to determine the full progress made by the doctors in localizing the lung infection. This was the second time X-Ray pictures have been taken since the King fell ill.

Although general anxiety has lessened somewhat, there was still

1-MAN CAR ACCIDENTS INCREASE

Accidents involving one-man cars showed an increase in 1927 and the first 10 months of 1928, C. D. Palmer, research engineer for the Pittsburgh Railways Company, admitted under cross-examination in the hearing on the McKeesport controversy before the Public Service Commission today.

Prior to that, Palmer had testified that since 1922 the mileage of the one-man cars on the system had increased from virtually zero to 26.9 per cent of the total, while the accident percentage in the same period decreased from 3.68 to 3.25 per 10,000 miles.

"SAFE" CARS IN CRASH

J. M. Loftis, superintendent of transportation, said one-man cars are as safe as two-man cars on Evans avenue, McKeesport, the route complained against by officials of that city.

The cars used on Evans avenue, he testified, are the same type as involved in the accident on Amity street, Homestead, last month, although their control system is different.

The hearing began yesterday before Public Service Commissioner Charles Young, with P. H. McCance representing the company and City Solicitor Harry M. Jones representing McKeesport.

H. H. Fenton, superintendent of training operators, testified today that all operators on the Evans avenue line had passed the required examinations. He admitted, under cross-examination, that the operator of a one-man car had much of the conductor's work to do.

K. D. Loefler, engineer, said the same running time was being maintained by the one-man cars on the Evans avenue line as by the two-man type.

D. H. Bell, equipment engineer, described new safety equipment on one-man cars.

MEDAL FOR EIELSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—A Congressional Medal of Honor would be awarded by the President to Lieut. Carl B. Eielson, Army Air Corps, reserve pilot of the airplane that took Sir Hubert Wilkins across the Polar regions, under a bill introduced by Representative Burtness, Republican, North Dakota.

The award would be for "services rendered in adding to the scientific knowledge of the frozen north and in showing the possibilities of aviation in the Arctic regions."

8 POLICE HEADS AT CASH QUIZ

Prepared, they said, to give all information regarding their bank accounts sought by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, Police Supt. Peter Walsh, Police Inspector Charles Faulkner and six police lieutenants today answered subpenas of the graft-probing county grand jury.

The police officials elected not to stand on their constitutional right to avoid giving testimony before the probing body, Attorneys Charles B. Prichard and Edward G. Coll, representing the officials summoned announced.

The attorneys declared that the police officials were prepared to give satisfactory explanations of all bank deposits. Both conferred this morning with District Attorney Gardner pointing out to him that the summonses were offensive to the American system of justice, in view of the attempt of the district attorney to charge the officials with wrongdoing.

DECLINES COMMENT

Gardner declined to offer any comment after the conference, which took place in the Court House corridor, merely saying that he would call the witnesses. All were present and remained throughout the morning, as other witnesses were examined by the grand jury.

The police lieutenants are: Philip Marmo, D. R. Fitzsimmons, Hary Moore, John J. Lynch, George Hook and James J. Callaghan. When noon recess was taken by the grand jury, Assistant District Attorney George F. R. Langfitt, conducting the examinations, directed that the police officials report when the probe resumed at 1:30 o'clock.

Helen Catteral, a comely girl, of 1406 Creedmore avenue, Brookline, was examined at length this morning with regard to the operations of the Fort Pitt lottery, Langfitt stated. She was a clerk for the Schenley Vacation Club, the organization which conducted the lottery, according to the charges, and numerous checks, purporting to have been distributed for prizes, were placed before the grand jurors, it was stated.

MEYER MUM ON JURY

Lawrence Johnson, Negro bootblack in the Plaza building, who lives at 70 Sylvania avenue, was a witness in connection with the operation of a lottery.

United States Attorney John D. Meyer has refused to enlarge upon his signed statement of yesterday in which he said the further trials of the federal rum conspiracy cases would be postponed until February 5. He did not state which group would be called for trial, nor did he say positively whether the grand jury, which is to be recalled January 7, would be asked to reindict those persons acquitted in the North Side rum trial.

GIRL CRIES AS JUDGE DECREES FATE

Two women, one a young, attractive college graduate, were sentenced to serve jail terms in Criminal Court today for cheating at the polls.

At the same time Judge J. Frank Graff sentenced six other election officials to jail for election frauds perpetrated at the September (1927) primaries.

The sentences:

Fourteenth District, Twenty-first Ward—Clara Manes, attractive brunette and graduate of Pennsylvania College for Women, and Mrs. Anna Alston, sentenced to 60 days in jail, fined $300 each and the costs; Clarence A. Bowers and James Williamson, six months in jail, fines of $300 and costs.

Twentieth District, Fifth Ward—Meyer Angell, John Miller and Melvin Keist, six months in jail, fined $300 and costs; J. W. Jeffries, Negro, 60 days in jail, $300 fines and costs.

MAY PAROLE WOMEN

John Jacobs, clerk and fifth member of this board, failed to appear for tense and plans were made to bring him in.

Judge Graff ruled in the cases of Miss Manes, Mrs. Alston and Jeffries, each of whom was sentenced to the short term of 60 days, the prisoners might be released after 15 days in jail if by that time they had the fines and costs.

These defendants had all been found guilty of election frauds last April. Today they were arraigned for sentence.

GIRL WEEPS

As Judge Graff pronounced sentences, Miss Manes broke down and tears were streaming down her pretty face. She appeared near a state of collapse.

Judge Graff agreed to allow Meyer Angell to begin serving his term as late as December 26—the day after Christmas—when his counsel

GIRL KILLS COAL OPERATOR IN DOOR OF HOME, ESCAPES

CANTON, O., Dec. 7.—A search, so far futile, is being pressed for a young woman, modishly dressed, who last night shot and killed Bernard E. Fearn, 35, coal mine operator in the presence of his wife and daughter.

The young woman, about 22, called Fearn to the door of his home and pumped seven bullets from an automatic pistol into his body. Then she walked quietly down the road, boarded a bus and disappeared.

Mrs. Fearn had answered the summons at the door of the home, three miles south of Canton on the Waynesburg road. The young woman asked for Fearn. When he appeared she began shooting. Not a word passed between them.

The slayer, it has been learned, walked a half mile to a filling station, where she chatted a few minutes with an attendant, then boarded a Canton bound bus. She evidently had timed the shooting, so as to be able to leave on the bus. As she talked she displayed no emotion, it was said.

Before Fearn died, his wife asked him if he knew the woman, and he replied in the negative. Police received a report that the woman had been seen near the house on two preceding nights, but the Fearn family was absent.

JAWORSKI EXECUTION DATE FIXED BY FISHER

The end of the road loomed for Paul Jaworski, convicted payroll bandit and murderer, today as Gov. John S. Fisher fixed the week of December 31 as the date for his execution at Rockview.

Calmly puffing his pipe, Paul received the news from the lips of Warden John McNeil, of the county jail.

SHOWS NO EMOTION

"Well, Paul," said McNeil, "the afternoon papers will say that December 31 is the day."

"So he has finally fixed it," replied Jaworski slowly. He made no other comment and betrayed no emotion.

Shortly the doomed man sent this telegram to his sister, Katherine Pallas, 2727 Yemans street, Detroit, his confidante and one who remained close to his side in his first court trial:

"The governor has set the date for the first of this month." It was signed "Paul."

Jaworski, heavily guarded, will be taken from the jail to the death house at Rockview several days before the date said, it was stated.

TWO M'MANUS HENCHMEN SOUGHT

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The investigation of the slaying of Arnold Rothstein took a new turn today with the revelation by police that a nation-wide search is being made for James ("Red") Quigley and Johnny Burke, henchmen of George McManus.

BILLER INDICTED

McManus, a big-time bookmaker, and his pay-off man, Hyman Biller, have been indicted in the slaying of the master gambler. McManus is in the Tombs, while Biller, together with Quigley and Burke, are being hunted by the police.

Whether Quigley and Burke were the two unnamed men accused in the four indictments returned by the grand jury could not be learned.

MISSING FROM HAUNTS

They have been missing from their usual haunts here since the shooting, however, and police believe that their testimony will go far toward clearing up the mystery.

Having turned the homicide phase of the investigation over to police, District Attorney Joab Banton is now preparing evidence for trial and examining the more important of the documents taken from Rothstein's 60,000 confiscated papers. He was to go before Judge Francis Mancuso today to obtain instructions on the manner of procedure in the examination of these documents.

Rothstein, these papers revealed, lost $550,000 in cashing "rubber checks" for his pals, it developed today.

NORTHCOTT, SR., TO CLEAR UP RANCH STORY

International News Service.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Dec. 7.—After three and three-quarter hours of severest grilling to which he has yet been subjected, Cyrus G. Northcott, father of Gordon Stewart Northcott, suddenly broke yesterday afternoon and promised to "tell all."

The whole story of everything will be exposed Saturday, the elder Northcott told Deputy District Attorney Earl Redwine of Riverside county.

It is charged that at least nine murders were committed on the Northcott "murder farm."

Sobbing and groveling on his couch in the county hospital detention ward, the 61-year-old man cried:

"Mr. Redwine, I have decided to t ll all about this whole affair. But I want all day tomorrow to think before I speak, then, on Saturday, I will tell everything about what happened at the farm!"

GRANDSON SPEEDS "BREAK"

The breaking point came when questioners told the father of the new information furnished by Sanford Clark, his grandson, and the state's star witness.

"Sanford told us today that you brought some lye to the farm when Stewart asked you for it. Then, Sanford said you asked whether he and Stewart had poured it all in the grave," Redwine said.

"It's a lie—it's not true," the old man said.

International News Service.

HAVANA, Dec. 7.—The jolly Miss Frances Porter, former Atlanta (Ga.) newspaper writer and actress, who theoretically hoisted the "Jolly Roger" over her borrowed private yacht, the Malvern, was on the high seas today hopeful that her troubles in Cuba are over.

The owner of the yacht C. T. Whitehead, Atlanta millionaire, who is under a doctor's care suffering from scratches and bruises he claims were inflicted by Miss Porter, was left behind.

When the Malvern sailed late yesterday, after a week of hectic times in this port, Miss Porter said she expected to make port at Tampa, Fla., some time today. Clearance papers for the Malvern were obtained by the United States consul.

Cuban immigration and police authorities breathed a sigh of relief when the Malvern was gone. The departure of Miss Porter solved a problem which was puzzling officials.

Immigration authorities had a deportation warrant for Miss Porter and the police had a warrant charging her with assaulting Whitehead. But both have been quashed.

Whitehead was still confined to his hotel room, but was said to be better. It is understood that fears of blood poisoning have now been allayed by medical treatment.

It is not known what steps Whitehead will take to regain his yacht. He told friends he expected to take a long cruise in it later on.

Six Seconds For Safety

"A great many motorists seemingly cannot forget the war, for they still have as their motto, 'They Shall Not Pass'."

This "wise crack" came today from the Pittsburgh Motor Club. The club is trying, with pungent sayings, to promote caution and prevent automobile accidents, with a view to keeping sorrow out of Pittsburgh homes this Christmas.

The club urges motorists to remember that six seconds are necessary to prevent an accident. Last year 25,775 people were killed in the United States by motor mishaps.

In medical circles it is felt that at least several days of normal temperature and sleep, and continued general improvement will be necessary before it can be stated that the King definitely has passed the crisis of his illness.

Last night's bulletin, similar to another issued earlier in the day, was received hopefully everywhere. It informed of general improvement, localization of the infection and apparently lowered temperature.

Pearson went to the Baltimore hospital several weeks ago for rest and observation. Today he suffered a heart stroke, it was stated, and died almost immediately.

Patrolman Louis Pedler noticed the fire shortly before 7 o'clock, aroused the occupants and turned in an alarm from box 662.

Three Die in Blast In Chemical Plant

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(INS.)—Three dead and nine injured was the toll of the explosion in the chemical plant of the Kill-All Disinfecting Company here yesterday, it was announced today after a night search had failed to substantiate reports that other employes were missing. The dead are Harry Freeman, owner of the company; Andrew Avadilo, a junk collector, who happened to be at the plant, and an unidentified employe.

Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy said he believed an electric spark from a motor had ignited vapors from the chemicals, causing the explosion.

CAR ACCIDENTS INCREASING

to the effect that one-man cars are dangerous.

Steve Simco and John Barth, residents of Evans avenue, testified cars had jumped the tracks three times, once tearing down the former's porch and another time crashing into a fruit store at Fifth and Evans avenues.

A. J. Richards, safety director of McKeesport, and Luke Savage, city engineer, testified grades on Evans avenue are as high as 9.5 per cent.

A. L. Burnside, a motorman, told the commission it was difficult to operate a car around the curve in Evans avenue unless there was a man to sand the tracks.

One man cars are operating in Evans avenue at present under a truce between the city of McKeesport and the traction company until the public service commision makes a decision.

"HARD TO HANDLE"

LeRoy Romick, who testified he operated one-man cars on Evans avenue, when asked if they were harder to handle than a two-man car, said:

"They're something new. They are not as easy for men to control. A man has more to contend with and more worry."

"Is Evans avenue a difficult grade to operate?" asked Jones.

"It keeps a man busy," said Romick. "He has to mind his p's and q's."

Jones, asking if the operator of a one-man car could leave it under any circumstances, tried to find out what Romick would do in case the trolley left the wire.

"I'd ask some passenger if he would be kind enough to put it on," said the witness. "I wouldn't leave the car. If I couldn't get anyone to do it I'd have to wait until the next car came along."

to accept a challenge to provide every cent that is necessary. There now is practically no federal enforcement except in a few big cities such as New York or Chicago.

"Although conditions in such dry states as Kansas, North Carolina, Minnesota and Iowa are bad, there is hardly a penny spent for real federal enforcement."

La Guardia declared that the prohibition bureau ought to be before Congress demanding 150,000 enforcement agents. Representative Crampton (Rep.), of Michigan, unofficial dry leader, scoffed at the proposals of the New Yorker.

STATES SHOULD AID

"The federal field in prohibition law enforcement includes the prevention of smuggling from abroad, the curbing of embassies, the prevention of diversion of industrial alcohol and similar activities," said Cramton.

"The closing of neighborhood bootleggers and the eradication of corner speakeasies is the field in which the state and the city can best operate. The same people pay all the taxes, whether federal, state or city, and any decent scheme of enforcement should be based on the proper discharge of its responsibilities by each arm of these governments.

"It is governmental nonsense to propose an army of federal policemen to cover the same beats in New York that are now covered by officers sworn to enforce the law."

Cramton declared that "such cities as New York and Chicago cannot expect to permit the criminal bootlegging class to fatten on their games without reaping the harvest of gunmen, racketeering and other crimes which are coming

AUSTRIAN DEBT COVERED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—At the request of the Austrian government, Howard Sutherland, alien property custodian, today deposited $1,433,852.21 in the treasury to cover claims lodged with the Tripartite claims commission by American nationals against Austria.

Today is the eleventh anniversary of the declaration of war between the United States and the old empire of Austria Hungary.

The money deposited constituted income from securities purchased with funds of the Austrian tobacco monopoly, which was seized during the war.

The claims commission said today it is more than sufficient to cover judgments granted to date, totalling less than $400,000. One hundred cases remain for consideration.

LONDON DOUBTS SWIMMER WILL WED

LONDON, Dec. 7.—(Special)—London speculates today on whether Miss Mercedes Gleitze, stenographer and English Channel swimmer, is still unkissed.

Her "mail fiance," Private William Farrance, has overtaken her and they have been seen together about London of late. Private Farrance, R. A., in far-off India, liked Miss Gleitze's picture in a newspaper and wrote her; they became engaged—by mail. And about that time, in London, Miss Gleitze confessed that never had she been kissed and under a childhood vow no man but her husband would touch her lips with his.

Then Mr. William Farrance, gentleman of leisure, returned to England, bronzed and seeking his bride-to-be. Nowhere was she to be found and from here to there he went seeking her. "Jilted," said an interested London.

Perseverance of an Army man triumphed and Mr. Farrance found her. "Happy," says he—but nothing is said about the marriage. And London wonders: "Has she been, after all, kissed?"

The tenth defendant of the two boards, Joseph W. Klein, turned state's evidence at the trial and his testimony helped Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk to obtain convictions against the others.

PAROLE PLEA REFUSED

Before sentencing the defendants Judge Graff refused the pleas of defense counsel for paroles, and again for new trials.

"I have no doubt," Judge Graff said, "that these people were led into making these frauds by others. That is my personal view, upheld by the testimony. Consideration has been given for that or the sentences would be more severe."

The defendants were convicted last April on charges of conspiracy to commit election frauds. They and some 200 others were indicted in a wide investigation which touched all parts of the city.

The members of these two boards were the only ones convicted by jury, but all the others pleaded guilty and escaped, for the most with fines of

LATE SOS DECLARED FATAL

By HERMAN GIESKE.
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—From the foundering Vestris an SOS should have been sent out at 4 a. m. Monday, November 12—six hours before the distress call actually was sent.

Upon this conclusion Capt. Henry McConkey, British, and Capt. E. P. Jessop, American, nautical advisors, were in agreement yesterday in simultaneous reports to United States Commissioner O'Neill, investigating the tragedy.

Upon other points the two experts were at variance. Although he displayed no tendency to condone inefficiency or lack of proper equipment, Capt. McConkey suggested that "hysteria" of the survivors might prevent getting at all of the actual events for some time.

"INCOMPETENCE GLARING"

One high point in the report of Capt. Jessop was his declaration:

"It has been pretty well demonstrated that some of the lifeboats were not seaworthy as to watertightness. As to equipment, however, they seem to have been in fairly good shape.

"The testimony inevitably points to the incompetence of the executive officers of the vessel. I can't say that from a seafaring viewpoint a vessel with two open hatches known to fill with water is thoroughly seaworthy."

Capt. McConkey offered a number of criticisms. Among them were:

"An organization for using the life-saving equipment appears to have been in existence, but this organization was not brought into effect with efficiency.

"These (life-saving) appliances do not appear to have been used to their full advantage.

"While it seems to have been a mistake to use the port boats owing to the tremendous list of the ship, consideration should be given the fact that the captain was a man of great experience and undoubtedly, whether right or wrong, had some reason in his own mind for taking this action."

Capt. Jessop enumerated the death roll as:

Twenty-seven women, 21 children, 70 men; total, 118.

This total, he explained, showed a loss of all children on the liner, 70 per cent of the women, 64 per cent of all passengers and only 22 per cent of the crew.

What partially explained the large proportion of crew saved, said Capt. Jessop, was that the port boats lowered fully loaded with passengers, but no officer in them to take charge.

He added:

"In this failure testimony inevitably points to the inefficiency of the executive officers."

Capt. Jessop said he found no fault with the crew of the Vestris On this point he declared:

"They seemed to be competent enough if they were led—but they were not led."

PROGRAM OF BUILDING STANDS

By WILLIAM P. BLYTHE.
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The State Department has disposed of the informal overtures for a naval conference with the plain intimation that the American cruiser-building program could not be halted in that way.

The revelation was aimed directly at the British and specifically at Field Marshal Sir William Robertson, quoted as saying to the League of Nations Union Wednesday:

"The United States cannot attach much importance to the League of Nations or the Kellogg pact, or she would not be so anxious about increasing her navy."

It had been suggested that the United States and the British hold a conference at once and seek to adjust their differences before the United States began the construction of the 15 additional cruisers.

SECRET PACT UP

The "informal overtures" included exchanges regarding the recent Franco-British secret naval alliance, submitted the State Department, with a request that it be approved; speeches by Sir Austin Chamberlain and Premier Stanley Baldwin, and the more recent correspondence between Representative Fred A. Britten, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, and Mr. Baldwin, in which the latter was invited to send a parliamentary committee to America to discuss naval limitations with a committee of Congress.

The State Department made it plain that even should the United States consent to enter a naval conference prior to 1931, when the powers are bound by treaty to take up the subject, nothing could be accomplished to halt the building of necessary war vessels for the replacement of obsolete cruisers.

It was put by one of the highest government officials in this way:

"A great many times the United States has offered a limitation on the basis of from 140,000 tons to 200,000 tons of cruisers. There was not any possibility of making that agreement, although we thought there was when we made the proposition. We found that to make an agreement we had to go over 400,000 tons, which was a great deal, and we could not do that.

"As to the present cruiser program, the eight cruisers already authorized, the 15 asked for and the 10 six-inch gun cruisers we have built, altogether would amount only to 300,000 tons because we have not a cruiser that won't be obsolete and of no use whatever by the time these cruisers are built."

WEST TO GO ON CARPET OVER UTILITIES

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Secretary of the Interior Roy O. West, of Illinois, will face the Senate Public Lands Committee Saturday morning to explain his connection with public utilities, it was announced today.

The session was called by Senator Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, chairman, as soon as President Coolidge submitted West's reappointment for confirmation.

The President's action took the Senate by surprise as it had been widely rumored West would be continued in office until March 4, under his original recess appointment. The President, hearing of the rumors, immediately sent his name to the Senate. It was said West had asked for this action so he could put a stop to the rumors circulated against him.

The Senate inquiry will deal with reports of West's connections with the utility interests owned by Samuel Insull, the Chicago multi-millionaire. At one time Insull employed West's law firm, but according to reports, the connection was ended some time ago.

Administration leaders predicted West's confirmation and were hopeful that a serious row could be averted. There were prospects of confirmation chiefly because the secretary will serve only until March 4.

Family's "Visit" So Long, Wife Takes Poison

JERSEY CITY, Dec. 7.—(INS.)—For months Mrs. Pearl H. Nerdinger, 24, lived happily with her husband and child in their five-room house here. Then her mother died in Ohio and her father and 10 younger brothers came here "for a visit." Six weeks passed and the "guests" still stayed on.

There were 11 additional mouths to feed, extra dishes to be washed and dried and four times as much housework. Discouraged, Mrs. Nerdinger took poison three times. Today a special policeman was assigned to watch over her and "keep her from committing suicide."

COURT BARS DOE HUNTING IN 7 COUNTIES

HARRISBURG, Dec. 7.—Hunters who delayed starting in their quest for does are awaking almost every morning to find the territory in which they may hunt more and more restricted.

Two court injunctions granted yesterday barred Clearfield and Somerset counties to doe hunters and increased to seven the total stricken from the original 54 opened by the special ruling of the Game Commission. On application of four residents of the district, Judge A. R. Chase yesterday restrained hunters from gunning for doe in Clearfield county, while Judge John A. Berkey, of Somerset county, granted a similar order. Hearings on both orders were set for December 24, nine days after the official closing of the season.

That the injunction method has become the popular weapon of irate hunters in waging their battle with the game commission, was shown yesterday, the second day this week, when two counties were closed to hunters by this means. On Monday, Cambria and Wyoming followed the example previously set by Monroe, Pike and Northampton counties.

As the result of injunctions and the fact that 13 counties were not affected by the commission's ruling, 20 of the state's 67 counties are now closed to hunters.

From the office of the game commission, however, John J. Slautterback, acting executive secretary, yesterday announced that the kill of does has not been as large as expected and that, if the commission's object of balancing the sexes in the state deer herd is to be accomplished, it may be necessary to open the season on does in future years.

FLOOD CONTROL WORK UNDER PROBE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(INS.—An inquiry into Mississippi flood control work will be undertaken by the House Flood Control Committee as the result of widespread criticism of the Army Engineer Corps' policies, Representative Frank R. Reid (Rep.), of Illinois, chairman, announced today.

Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of Army engineers, will be called before the committee soon to explain progress made on the $325,000,000 flood control scheme and give his interpretation of the flood control act.

"There is a dissatisfaction with respect to the interpretation of the flood contract act providing for the diversion of waters from the main channel of the Mississippi in the Boeuf Basin, in South Arkansas and Northern Louisiana and into the Atchafalaya River," explained Reid.

"Senators and congressmen and public officials throughout this region indicate a general dissatisfaction with the position taken by Maj. Gen. Jadwin in carrying out the provisions of the flood control act with respect to these diversions.

TOO MUCH ECONOMY

"These comments are to the effect that Gen. Jarwin is continuing to follow his original economic ideas with regard to these floodways, instead of trying to fully and adequately protect the inhabitants by proper safety devices from great loss and damage and perhaps drowning.

"Complaining members believe that it was the intention of Congress to provide safe passage for the destructive flood waters before-hand rather than permit the flood waters to go uncontrolled, causing great damage with payment being made afterward."

Reid said War Department reports of progress in rebuilding and raising levees along the Mississippi are satisfactory.

There is complaint of lack of speedy progress in extending flood control to tributaries, he said.

At this point the other bandit cracked Miss Gartner over the head with a blackjack.

"This polite stuff is the bunk," he said, yanking the fur coat from Miss Gartner, who had been knocked down.

Girl Ticket Seller Saves Theater Cash

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The husky grip of Olive Rooks, 20, theater ticket seller, robbed a robber of a roll of bills which he had snatched from her cash till, but wasn't strong enough to keep him from breaking away and making his escape in the crowded street.

Olive, nearly six feet tall and farm bred, noticed the man loitering in front of the ticket kiosk, and when he approached, watched him with wary eye. As he thrust his hand through the narrow opening, grasping the roll of bills, she closed on his arm with a steady hand and twisted. With a shriek he dropped the money, jerked loose and bolted.

SHARK WATERS SEARCHED FOR YACHT CREW

MELBOURNE, Fla., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Search for three additional persons on board a yacht at the time of an explosion Wednesday night was continued today in the shark-infested waters near Melbourne.

Two men, Edward Satinover and Leslie Royal, both of Jacksonville, were taken from the water yesterday. The former, unable to swim, saved himself by clinging all night to a keg. He was rescued by a fishing smack. Royal, an expert swimmer, struck out for the shore, several miles away, and was lifted from the water by a boat crew last night as he was nearing the point of exhaustion. He was in the hospital today, suffering from the effects of exposure.

Satinover and the missing trio were indicted by a federal grand jury Monday, in Jacksonville, on a charge of violating the national prohibition law.

The explosion is believed to have resulted from backfiring of the motor, which ignited gas fumes in the ship's gas tank.

Distress flares were sent up after the explosion, and four coast guard cutters raced to the scene. Royal said one of the cutters passed within 150 feet, but the lookouts apparently did not see him.

Windows in a number of dwellings nearby were shattered. Firemen extinguished a blaze caused by the blast. Damage was placed at $10,000.

O. K. Asked on Austrian Debt Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(INS.)—The House Ways and Means Committee was asked today by Ogden Mills, undersecretary of treasury, to approve the funding arrangement for Austria's $35,000,000 debt to the United States. Austria agrees to make five annual payments of $287,555 each; 10 of $460,093, beginning in 1934; and 25 of $743,047, beginning in 1944. Under a previous congressional resolution Austria was given until 1943 to start payments.

Mills asked that the $100,000,000 loan Austria is seeking here be given priority over its obligations to the United States.

U.S. STEEL SUED OVER PATENT RIGHTS

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Bethlehem Steel Corporation of Bethlehem, Pa., and the American Universal Mill Company, of Scranton, filed suit in Federal Court yesterday against the United States Steel Corporation, the Carnegie Steel Corporation and the American Bridge Company, charging infringement of five patents having a sales value of $250,000,000.

The bill of complaint demanded a permanent injunction against the alleged infringement, an accounting of profits, payment of court costs and treble damages.

The patents, the complaint alleges, were obtained by the plaintiff companies on assignment from Henry Gray, of New York, an inventor, in March, 1904. They cover the manufacture of metal bars for construction work. The complaint also alleges that the defendants have paid no attention to notices of the alleged infringements.

POWER TRUST'S 'NEWS' FAKES DISCLOSED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—A power trust campaign of false "news," intended to turn the corn belt against the Boulder Dam project, has been disclosed.

"News" articles to this end were sent broadcast to Missouri newspapers this year, as well as an earlier drive in 1925. They were obtained by the Federal Trade Commission from the heavily laden files of J. B. Sheridan, power propagandist in that state.

J. E. Davidson, of Omaha, then president of the National Electric Light Association, the dominant power lobby organization, wrote approvingly of the first article, the records showed. He thanked Sheridan for sending the "Missouri Utility News," a clearinghouse for newspapers with the article to be published.

This article was headed:

"Arid land owners ask corn belt to stake them to irrigation water."

It is purported to be a news dispatch, bearing a Los Angeles dateline with the date left blank, and consisted of a long tirade against the dam project. The article asserted it was impossible to produce cheap electricity at Boulder Canyon.

"The purpose in sending out this story is to remind farmers and other taxpayers that they will be required to help pay for irrigation of far-away desert lands if the Boulder Dam project is put through as a government operated project," the covering letter said.

Like attempts to arouse fear of crop competition among farmers were made in virtually every part of the country, the Commission's records showed.

$450,000 CUT PLANNED IN BUDGET

Deficits totaling about $450,000 would be added to the $500,000 expected to appear in red ink on the city's cash book if departments were allowed to spend in 1928 all the money requested, according to figures submitted to Council by H. S. Breitenstein, controller's statistician.

Appropriations authorized for 1928 totalled approximately $25,592,000, but department heads have programs that would raise this year's expenditures to $26,056,000. Council expects to eliminate the excess.

When Council resumes budget meetings next week, consideration will be given requests for next year approximating $25,884,000.

Major items in that total are: Department of Public Works, $7,408,000; debt service, $6,230,000; Safety Department, $5,424,000; Health Department, $2,525,000; administration, including the Mayor's office, Council, treasurer, controller and police magistrates, $2,086,000; special appropriations, $1,122,000.

FIVE ARRESTED IN DRY RAIDS

Five persons were arrested and large quantities of whisky, wine and gin were seized by federal prohibition agents yesterday in raids on a saloon, two homes and a club.

Three hundred and fifty gallons of whisky, 3,400 pounds of corn sugar and large containers were confiscated, agents say, when they raided a dwelling in Connellsville road, North Union township, Fayette county. Mrs. Charles Winegrove, 40, and Robert Johnson, 50, were apprehended, according to the agents' report.

The saloon of Nick Secich at 3329 Penn avenue, yielded liquor which caused Secich's arrest, the dry enforcement officers say. Matthew Lohitas, 62, of 122 Frustum street, was arrested in connection with the operation of a 1,000-gallon still, found in his home, the raiders' report states.

In a Larimer avenue club, whisky and gin were seized. Frank Butler, 28, was released on a $1,000 bond.

U. S. RADIO BODY MAY CONTINUE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Federal Radio Commission, scheduled to pass out of existence on March 16, may continue to function as usual for a time after that date.

Chairman White, of the House Merchant Marine Committee, co-author of the radio act, is drafting a resolution asking that the life of the commission be extended.

He said that he was opposed to making the commission a fixture, but he believed, in view of its experience, it should be kept in power long enough to complete some of the most important tasks confronting it.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A SMART FROCK FOR THE GROWING GIRL.

The real nice thing about this model is its suitability for many materials. It is pictured in printed velvet with crepe for the trimming. Printed jersey, wool crepe or georgette would also be desirable, and for cotton prints or silk crepe it is equally attractive. Below the shaped plastron and at the sides, pleats are formed that lend graceful fullness to the dress. A neat collar, plain fitted sleeves and a narrow belt complete this style. The sleeve may be finished in short length, as shown in the small view.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. To make the dress for a 10-year size, as pictured in the large view, will require 2⅝ yards of 36-inch material, together with ¼ yard of contrasting material for facings on collar, plastron and belt. If made with short sleeves, ¾ yard less of the figured material will be required. To finish with narrow piping or bias binding will require 3½ yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

BUGS BAER Says

THE Jersey rabbit season is open.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

He shoots 'em out of trees, stews and bird and dog stores.

The biggest bag of all was on Thursday when a Jersey shooter shot seven rabbits out of an ermine coat in a window.

The Maine moose season is also stepping full blast.

There are very favorable reports. For him in bad. And guides are plentiful.

Mr. Coolidge's quail shoot in Virginia was successful. It kept the President in the open air and gave the quail a chance to snatch some sleep.

But the Maine moose soldiers follow a different system. They keep popping away in the moose war until something drops.

If they shoot a cow, it's all right, because they can prove the cow was a spy.

In order to be absolutely impartial he always closes his eyes before he shoots.

The result is that pall bearers are busier than taxidermists.

Even one of the Royal Northwest Mounted in a red coat only saved his life after a long argument with a squad of our moose detectives.

He finally convinced the forest bandits that moose weren't dressing that way this year.

For the benefit of unschooled moose guerrillas we wish to state that a moose is an animal with horns on his head. When you shoot at him he runs away and doesn't stop to appoint a substitute to the office.

He looks just as nice on the wall as a hunter does on the floor. Moose hunting is an elimination tournament between hunters.

And we are sorry to say that the moose always seems to draw the bye.

Fire Routs Man, Wife And Three Children

A man, his wife and their three children were routed from their beds shortly before midnight when fire, caused by an overheated furnace, swept through the two-story stone and shingel residence of Cecil Ostemeier, at 1506 Chelton avenue, Brookline. The family was asleep on the second floor when Ostemeier, awakened by the smoke, roused his wife and children. They found refuge in the home of a neighbor. Firemen estimated the damage at $500.

Three Girls Flee Detention Rooms

Police and detectives today were on the lookout for three girls who escaped from the Juvenile Detention Rooms, Forbes street, last night. The three are Margaret Jenkins, 16, of 5 Moultrie street; Laura Zadola, 16, Willow way, Braddock, and Anna Walton, 17, of South Nineteenth street. The girls, police say, had been committed for minor offenses.

FRIENDSHIP GREATEST THING, SAYS JOHN D.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller came back to his winter home last night, somewhat disappointed at the weather, but eager for a sight of his golf course along the sea dunes.

A large crowd was on hand at the station to greet the aged capitalist, but because of the damp chill, Mr. Rockefeller, heavily wrapped, was hurried to his home.

"Why, the weather is almost as cold down here as it was in New York," he declared. "But we always hope for the best."

Asked what sort of game he played now, the magnate said, "It is only fairly good," and with a chuckle added, "It might be a whole lot better."

HAILS FRIENDSHIP

During his journey here from Jacksonville, Rockefeller told an Associated Press correspondent that friendship is "one of the greatest things in life," adding that "acclaim is more to be desired than riches."

The correspondent found the 89-year-old capitalist in a happy and meditative mood, though his attendants said he was worn and weary from the long trip.

"It is wonderful, this friendship," said the capitalist, speaking of his Ormond friends. "It is one of the greatest things in life. People are so good to me everywhere I go."

"You know that old saying," he added "'Tis better to be acclaimed than have riches?' You want to remember that, young man, because when you grow old, you will find how true it is."

As his caller started to leave, Mr. Rockefeller handed him a shining dime.

"Something to remember me by," he said.

Gun Concealed? Only Hay Loft Could Do It

DENVER, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—"Diamond Jack" Alterie, one time Chicago gunman, doesn't carry concealed weapons, a jury in Justice Court has decided. Alterie, now a rancher, was charged with carrying a concealed weapon October 27 when he went to the Union Station to do a little cheering for his favorite presidential candidate. Alterie testified the gun he carried was not concealed—it was stuck in his belt in plain sight.

"We agree," said the jury when the piece of artillery was exhibited. "That gun couldn't be concealed in anything smaller than a hay loft."

Constable Accuses Road House Owner

Frank Francis, proprietor of a roadhouse on the Camp Horne road, Kilbuck township, was arrested last night by Constable Joseph H. Conway of Coraopolis and will be arraigned tomorrow before Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan of Sewickley on charges of obstructing a process and assault and battery. Constable Conway charged Francis attacked him when he tried to levy on the roadhouse Tuesday on complaint of a creditor.

Dry Agents Arrest 4 In Steubenville

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 7.—Federal raiding was resumed here last night by squads which a week ago took 42 prisoners. Four were taken in the first raid. J. Rinaldi was released on $3,500 bond. John Andoes, John Disanks and Robert Miller are in the county jail on conspiracy charges. Agents said they will "dry up Steubenville."

Hold-up Men Fell Victim With Club

Beaten by two Negroes at Homewood and Lexington avenues last night, David W. Frazier, 7303 Reynolds street, was robbed of $30, a $50 watch and two checks for $8. Frazier was walking home when confronted by the thugs. One of them felled him with a blunt instrument. Pleading with them not to hit him again, the victim turned over his cash and valuables.

ATTY. CRAMER FOUND DEAD IN OFFICE

Attorney A. L. Cramer, 52, prominent in criminal practice, was found dead early this morning in his office in the Plaza Building. Police took the body to the Allegheny General Hospital, where it was announced that apoplexy had caused death. Cramer apparently had dropped into the office after attending a show downtown. He was found by a cleaner shortly after 3 o'clock.

Cramer had dinner with his family in their Morrowfield Hotel apartment, and went downtown at 8 o'clock to see a motion picture. Mrs. Anna Keeley, of 906 Watson street, cleaner, noticed a light in Cramer's office at midnight when she began work and believing the occupant busy, did not enter to clean the room until she had completed her other work.

The attorney was born in England and came to the United States when a young man. He was educated in Cleveland, graduating from the Western Reserve University and the Law school of the university. He came to Pittsburgh 22 years ago. He was a member of the Allegheny County Bar Association and the Rodef Shalom Congregation. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Harriet Cramer; a son, Robert, a student at Duquesne University, and a brother and sister in Cleveland.

Snow Tonight, Forecast Here

Light snow flurries and somewhat colder tonight was the weather menu offered by Forecaster W. S. Brotzman. The mercury will drop to about 24 degrees, he said, two degrees below this morning's mark. Tomorrow will be fair and slightly colder, but no severe frigidity is in prospect.

Some Fiction Unfit For Sailors—Farrell

Uniontown Woman Found Badly Hurt

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 7.—The body of an unidentified woman, 25, was found on Derrick avenue late last night. She had suffered a fractured skull, broken left shoulder, broken right hip and fractures of both arms. It is believed she was struck by a hit-and-run motorist. The woman's clothing was almost entirely torn from her body.

HOOVER'S TRIP HELD TRADE STIMULUS

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—President-elect Hoover is "throwing the searchlight" on South America and will open the eyes of business men of the United States to its "potential opportunities," Dr. Clarence J. Owens, president of the Pan-American Commercial Congress, declared in an exclusive interview today. He referred to South America as the "continent of opportunity."

"South America offers the United States unlimited opportunities for business expansion," said Dr. Owens. "It is in close proximity to us and has tremendous potential resources untouched by labor or capital.

"Commerce is the language of peace. Mr. Hoover knows that. We should develop that language and strengthen our good will with our neighbors to the South. If we do not develop trade relations with the countries of South America, other nations will."

Mr. Owens presided at the sixth annual convention of the Pan-American Commercial Congress which opened this morning at the Hotel Biltmore. Delegates were present from all parts of the United States, Canada and South America.

"What is the principal problem that must be surmounted in our dealings with South America?" he was asked.

"Loans," he replied. "Trade follows the loans. South American countries have no difficulty in floating $1,000,000,000 loans, but they do experience trouble in getting the United States to absorb a $1,000,000 issue, even though the project be just as meritorious. There is no market for the smaller loans.

"Our business is increasing steadily but we must be prepared to meet stiff competition from abroad. One way to build up our merchant marine is through South American trade. At present South America is floating bond issues for highway construction. This is the forerunner to large purchases of automobiles from this country."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LOSSES CITED

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Problems of the "feeble urban church" and the "declining rural church" were discussed at yesterday's sessions of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

"If a plan were envolved by which every 1,000 persons in rural districts might have a pastor assigned to them, regardless of denominational differences, there would be no problem in supplying rural communities," asserted Dr. J. R. Hargreaves, executive secretary of United Community Church Workers.

Recommendations from the commission on Evangelism, presented by the Rev. Dr. C. L. Goodell, secretary, cited a loss of 150,000 members to the Sunday Schools of the nation in the past 10 years.

Menjou Wins in Suit Filed by Agent

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Adolphe Menjou, screen hero, emerged victorious yesterday from a $2,500 suit filed against him in January, 1927, by John J. McKeon, a theatrical agent. McKeon induced the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to double Menjou's salary, he testified, but Menjou paid him only $10,000, instead of $12,500.

Ingram Homestead Damaged by Flames

Fire swept the Mary J. Ingram homestead, Ingram avenue, near the Thornburg viaduct, causing loss estimated at $10,000, and drove out five occupants of the house. Mrs. E. B. Hood found the basement filled with smoke and with her mother, Mrs. Catherine Frey, escaped after notifying the family of R. C. Watson, who also occupied the house. Mrs. Hood and Mrs. Watson carried out two Watson children, Harriett A., 4, and Robert E., 4 months. The building is owned by Frank Conley.

Police Guard Girls Awaiting Night Cars

To prevent further attacks upon girls waiting for street cars at night hours, a police guard has been stationed at Brady and Forbes streets at the intersection of the Twenty-second Street Bridge, where two attempted attacks were reported Tuesday and Wednesday mornings. Plainclothesmen were stationed in the district this morning. Police Inspector Albert Beebe probably will ask Council to install better lights in the section.

HOOVER NEARS END OF TRIP SOUTH

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN,
International News Service.

ABOARD U. S. S. MARYLAND, OFF CHILEAN COAST, (VIA ARLINGTON, VA., RADIO STATION) Dec. 7.—As he neared the end of his cruise southward on his goodwill mission to Latin America, President-elect Herbert Hoover today expressed his thanks to the officers and crew of the Maryland for their efficient seamanship and their excellent care of their passengers.

"I want to thank Capt. Kimberly and his fellow officers as well as the members of the crew for the fine courtesies extended to Mrs. Hoover, to me, and to those accompanying us," Mr. Hoover said, in a message which was published in "The Catapult," the ship's weekly magazine.

While there has been no official announcement, it is understood that Mr. Hoover will pay a goodwill visit to Mexico. If Mexico is not included on the present tour the President-elect probably will make a special trip to Mexico City after a few weeks' rest in Florida.

PLANS RETURN

Although he is enjoying his South American journey and is elated over the cordial demonstrations of friendship on every hand, as well as the indications of material benefits in the future, Mr. Hoover's thoughts have begun to turn toward home. He is already planning his return.

Unless he decides to stop over in Mexico he will sail from some Caribbean port (not yet selected) directly for Florida upon the United States warship Utah.

The Maryland will anchor off Antofagasta tomorrow morning where Mr. Hoover will greet a Bolivian delegation headed by the Bolivian foreign minister. The President-elect will not go ashore.

Bolivia has no sea coast which made it necessary for the Bolivian officials to travel for a foreign port.

Reports that the recent Chilean earthquake had interrupted railway traffic from Chile across the Andes to Argentina were officially denied in a radiogram received on board today. Should there have been any such interruption Mr. Hoover planned to continue on the Maryland round Cape Horn to Buenos Aires. Now, however, the original plans will stand.

The Hoover party will leave the Maryland at Valparaiso on Monday morning. They will travel by electric railway to Santiago where they will spend the night. On Tuesday the overland journey for Buenos Aires will start.

FED FOR $1 A DAY

The mess bill of Mr. Hoover and his immediate party, including Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher, has been less than $4 a day since the warship left San Pedro, Cal., on November 19, it was revealed today when settlements were made up to December 1. The entire bill from November 19 to December 1 was $50.

Quite a menagerie is being established on the Maryland as the result of live animals and birds taken on board at every port. Several live geese were lugged aboard by sailors returning from shore leave at Lima. The collection also includes a monkey from Guayaquil, half a dozen red and green parrots from Honduras, a baby puma mascot which the United States Marines took aboard at Corinto, Nicaragua, and a homing pigeon.

Allan Hoover, son of the President-elect, today received his "shellback certificate" which is evidence that he "received the works" while the warship was crossing the Equator. More than 800 engraved certificates in the "royal script of King Neptune" were distributed to those who were "hazed" on their first crossing of the Equator on November 30.

PARAGUAYANS, BOLIVIANS IN BATTLE

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—A dispatch to La Nacion today from Asuncion, Paraguay, said another clash had occurred between Paraguayan and Bolivian troops.

The dispatch said that Paraguayans had been fired upon when they found a fort built by the Bolivians near the boundary line.

The Paraguayans were stated to have returned the fire and captured several officers and soldiers.

There is a serious boundary dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay. The two republics signed a protocol in April, 1927, which established at Buenos Aires a joint commission to settle the question. No settlement has been reached. In October Paraguayan newspapers claimed Bolivians were advancing into the disputed region.

8 STRIKERS DIE IN COLOMBIA

BOGOTA, Colombia, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The newspaper Espectador said today that eight strikers had been killed and several wounded in a clash with soldiers attempting to restore order in the Santa Marta banana region. A state of siege has been decreed in the region and Gen. Carlos Cortes Vargas has been appointed civil and military commander.

The newspaper Mundo Al Dia said that the minister of war confirmed reports that strikers had been killed, but added that lack of telegraphic communication with the area made it difficult to obtain details.

Taft Denies Stay For Wife Killer

LARGER STATE ROAD FUNDS AVAILABLE

HANOVER, Pa., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis last night declared that the State Highway Department would have in each of the next two years more money for highway purposes than in 1926, 1927 and 1928, from present sources of revenue.

Speaking before the Kiwanis Club here, the state treasurer reiterated his attack on the contention that owing to the failure of the proposed $50,000,000 bond issue amendment to the constitution for road purposes, either additional money would have to be obtained by increased gasoline tax or other fees or the road program would have to be curtailed. Gov. Fisher has said that additional taxes will have to be levied to provide funds for the maintenance of the highway department's program.

"A very conservative estimate of receipts available for highway purposes from the three sources of revenue, namely, gasoline tax, motor license fees, and Federal aid, would be approximately $52,750,000," Lewis said. "This estimate of revenues is in excess of the actual total expenditure for all purposes of the highway department for each of the years 1926, 1927 and 1928."

"40 minutes after eating—Take Acidine for Health"

I Am Freeing Thousands From Civilization's Greatest Curse

WHAT is it? Acidosis, that dread acid condition that brings sour stomach, gas, indigestion, sick headache, biliousness, chronic head colds, insomnia, and rheumatism to us, weakened as we are from the never-ending acid poisons let loose in our systems as a result of chronic conditions or over-indulgence in food or drink.

My new discovery, ACIDINE, relieves acidosis at once, and with daily use the acid poisons are stopped. Don't suffer from these troubles longer. It doesn't cost you a cent to try ACIDINE, for your druggist will return your money if you are not satisfied after taking one full package.

JUDGE DELAYS TRIALS TO ASK DRY AGENT PROBE

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Federal Judge W. H. Atwell, of Dallas, whose harsh treatment of liquor law violators is known to Brooklyn, N. Y., where he occupied a federal bench last summer, stopped his court here yesterday to write a letter ordering an investigation of alleged graft by two federal prohibition agents of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Rickey Ketchem, charged with selling liquor, created a sensation when she asserted that she had paid agents, named Logsdon and Beck, $375 to protect her place of business.

Without leaving the bench, Judge Atwell called for writing materials and prepared and dispatched a letter to the United States district attorney's office at Fort Worth asking him to look into the allegation. Mrs. Ketchem then was given a year and a day in prison and fined $500.

Advices from Fort Worth said that George A. Hammens, deputy prohibition administrator, declared both men, W. B. Logsdon and J. H. Beck, left the service October 15, but that an investigation would be made.

Judge Atwell startled liquor law violators in New York metropolitan areas earlier this year by the stiff sentences and fines he handed out.

Los Angeles Girl To Wed New Yorker

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—(INS.)—Announcement of the engagement of Miss Vera Hennerberger, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hennerberger, prominent in Los Angeles social circles, to John W. Meader, of New York, was made here today.

The wedding, according to present plans, will take place in Los Angeles next April.

REED DEMANDS ALIEN QUOTA CHANGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Senator David A. Reed (R.), of Pennsylvania, has served blunt warning in the Senate that he will insist that immigration law quotas after next July 1 be based on the national origins clause.

Debate on the question became general and raged for more than an hour yesterday.

Before it was concluded, President-elect Hoover and his campaign opponent, Gov. Smith, had been brought into the discussion.

Senator Heflin (D.), of Alabama, seized the opportunity to sound off for the first time this session, demanding that immigration restrictions be tightened and that the Senate be "on guard" against any attempt to lower the barriers.

LEGION APPROVES

Reed started the barrage by reading a resolution from the American Legion of Illinois, approving the national origins provision.

He pointed out that this provision would be effective next July, unless Congress again postponed the application.

"I sincerely hope it will go into effect," said Reed. "I intend to oppose any attempt to extend or repeal it."

Senator Shipstead (F.-L.), of Minnesota protested against the national origins basis as inaccurate. Reed insisted it was more accurate and fair than the present 2 per cent of foreign-born based on the census of 1890.

TOTAL TO BE LESS

Answering a question of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader, Reed said the total quota under national origins would be 158,685, compared to 164,667, as at present. Quotas of certain groups will be cut down under the national origins plan, among those principally affected being Germany, the Irish Free State, and Norway and Sweden.

On the other hand British quotas will be increased considerably.

Senator Harrison declared that both parties stood united on restricted immigration and that personally he was for the national origins basis, but predicted that the incoming administration would ask either for an extension or repeal of the clause before next July.

Heflin retorted that Senator Harrison deceived himself when he said immigration was no longer a political question.

"Gov. Smith was not for restricted immigration and never has been," he said.

Wife Freed in Man's Killing in 6 Minutes

MADILL, Okla., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Deliberating only six minutes, a jury in District Court here acquitted Mrs. Ola Kimberlin, 21, mother of two children, of a murder charge in connection with the shooting of her husband last August.

Mrs. Kimberlin pleaded self-defense, testifying she shot her husband when he threatened her after they had separated.

Arms Limitation Agreement Fails

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The latest effort to reach an agreement on control of the manufacture of armaments has failed. Delegates to a special commission which began its sessions Tuesday, left Geneva last night, announcing that they were unable to agree on the text of a draft convention, and will be obliged to report to the council of the League of Nations at its forthcoming meeting in Lugano that the present situation did not justify convocation of an international conference.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Science has devised a new form of code for secret communication in wartime—inverted speech. In a demonstration by Bell Telephone experts something like "Fay-o-bonno jay-cutt play-feen crink-a-nose" came out of the speaker "Allegheny Mountain Telephone Company."

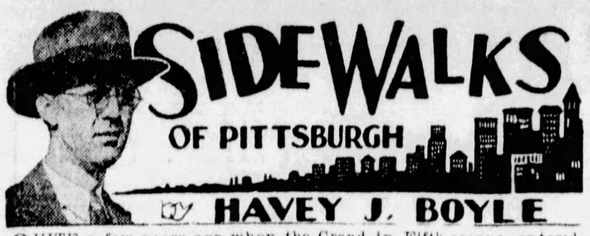
Oakland Trolley Cut Brings Protest

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH



By HAVEY J. BOYLE

QUITE a few years ago when the Grand in Fifth avenue catered to a 25-cent crowd in the rear of the gallery (the first few rows were sold for 35 cents) a tall young fellow, dancing across the stage, using expressive hands as much as his talented feet, would set the galleries in an uproar. His "spot" on the bill was not important as he had to give way to whatever Chinese act was the headliner. Sometimes he wore a funny hat, one too small for him. Other times he would wear straw around his waist and burlesque a Hawaiian number. Jack Donahue was not so well-known then as he is now, co-starring with Marilyn Miller in Rosalie, which leaves the Nixon tomorrow.

In the years he has been coming here he has come to know Dr. James Munster, an intimate of many stage folk, and he has come to know a few of the newspaper boys. Success has never made him giddy and he's just about the same Jack Donahue who used to come to the Grand.

It is, however, a more expensive Jack Donahue that you see today. For instance, back in the days at the Grand, Jack probably slipped his own trousers and coat on, whereas today, a polite valet takes care of his wardrobe and acts as a pleasant buffer protecting Donahue from certain forms of pests peculiar to the theatrical business.

DONAHUE has developed into a comedian of considerable stature, retaining his talent for dancing. He is a steady worker, but he finds time to dabble with writing a production and he is considering writing a magazine article or so from out of his stage experiences.

He doesn't miss any performances, which makes the job of his understudy an easy one. The understudy reports at the start of every performance and then can disappear. He must rehearse the part once a week.

The disadvantage about taking an understudy part, actors will tell you, is that one gets rusty and while idle no one knows much about your talent.

Back stage, the other day, we watched parts of "Rosalie." We noticed Marilyn Miller making an entrance. Awaiting her cue, she stood with both hands aloft, palms parallel to the roof. Her hands were about on the level with her shoulders. Why such a peculiar position? The answer came as she went on stage for the hands that were thus lifted high were allowed to drop naturally. It would not have been graceful for her to walk on swinging her arms like—well like most of us do. How many such artful things must these stars learn in the process to full development? They are thorough in all particulars.

HOW about the people who watch the shows? Donahue sees many differences. In vaudeville, in a gag, he might use the word "belly," but in high-priced production that would never do. One must even be careful about mentioning "tonsils."

Women laugh, but do not applaud as frequently as men. How does a comedian always manage to be in good humor? He doesn't and in those moments when the comedian is "sore" about something his tone is harsh, aggressive, surly and the whole company knows something's gone wrong. That is why stage people try to keep free from irritations.

A part of the chorus had to walk past us as we stood in the wings. A boy and girl, awaiting the cue, were humming. Imagine our embarassment when the girl not a half a foot away from us reached up and gave her chorusman-partner a kiss. We started to whistle a little tune, letting on we weren't around. What does the book say about a situation like that?

TRADE BOARD TO TAKE ACTION

Indignation of Oakalnd residents over the action of the Pittsburgh Railways Company in curtailing the service on the Atwood street line No. 81 will find formal expression at a meeting of the Oakland Board of Trade next Tuesday.

The matter will be fully discussed at that time, and a resolution probably offered looking to the filing of a protest against the company's course.

"We felt," said W. J. Moore, a director, in discussing the matter, "that we should wait until we knew exactly what had been done and what was contemplated before we took any formal action. There will be a meeting of the full membership next Tuesday evening, when the subject will be brought up anew and threshed out."

Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the railways company, stated that two of the five cars of the Atwood street line that formerly ran all the way downtown during the early morning rush hours now are restricted to shuttle service between outer Oakland and Forbes street. Passengers whose destination is downtown have to transfer at Forbes street to cars of other lines.

Mr. Fitzgerald said additional cars had been installed on the Forbes street and Fifth avenue lines to take care of the passengers transferred from the Atwood street shuttle cars and he asserted the change was really an improvement in the service.

Angry Oaklanders reply that the Atwood street service was inadequate before the change and is worse now. During the rush hours, it is said, every car is filled to standing, and this traffic is dumped out at Forbes and Atwood streets to wait in the weather for a chance to get a downtown car. With the heavy loads on the other lines it is often necessary, it is asserted, to wait a long time.

BALDWIN TWP. O. K.'S BILL FOR SEWER

Baldwin township commissioners at a meeting held in the township municipal building, Churchview avenue and Glass Run road, agreed to pay in full to Jerry F'errone Company, of Blawnox, contractors for the construction of the township's sewage disposal plant, recently constructed and now in full operation, $13,671.60. The one acre of land on which the plant was erected was acquired from the Pittsburgh Coal Company at a cost of $800. That amount had already been paid.

The commissioners have established the grade of Melvina avenue and Beatrice way, in accordance with the plans submitted by the township engineer, R. A. Schneider.

Several complaints have been made by citizens of the township on the bad conditions of roads on Wildwood avenue, Mary street and Pinchtown road. These complaints were turned over to William Uecker, road supervisor.

Non-interest bearing certificates of indebtedness to the amount of $2,226.89 were ordered issued to Matthew Ott & Co., Warrington avenue, contractors on the grading, curbing and paving of Bour street, which was completed last Monday. Samuel Simmons, chairman of the commissioners, presided.

LEGION POST LISTS WAR VETERANS

Names of approximately 1,000 ex-service men have been obtained by members of North Boroughs Post 116, American Legion, in their canvass incidental to a drive for new members.

Lists were supplied by churches and other organizations, and in addition a house-to-house canvass was made by Boy Scouts. The lists are being compared and checked against duplications, to provide a complete roster of men of the district who saw service in the World War.

As a means of bringing the veterans together, the executive committee of the post has decided to hold entertainments monthly. The first of these will be a smoker Friday night, December 14, in Bellevue Borough Hall. Several boxing bouts will be staged along with a speech-making program.

A report of the house committee regarding plans for permanent quarters will be made at the monthly business meeting next Monday, in the borough hall.

The Rev. Dr. John B. Magee, pastor of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, who saw service in France and was one of the authorized historians of the war, has been elected chaplain of the post.

Disapproving of his wife attending parties where intoxicating liquors were imbibed, George M. Brown, Emsworth, finally fell out with his wife, May L. Brown, and has asked Judge Joseph M. Swearingen, of Common Pleas Court, to divorce him.

Brown informed the court that his wife at times drank to excess and that while she was able to take care of herself when she came home, yet he knew she was under the influence of liquor. He said the state of his health and his inability to pay the expense involved in some of the parties, prevented him from attending. His wife went with a mixed crowd.

When the libellant reproved his wife about spending time with drinking parties she told him, so he testified, that if he did not like it, he knew what he could do. Mrs. Brown is 34 and her husband 35. The couple were married in 1922.

CLUES LACKING IN WEST VIEW MURDER

The murder of James Mascha, shoemaker of Center and Princeton avenues, West View, who was fatally wounded by a robber he thought was only joking, may never be solved.

He was shot by a stranger who had tarried in his shop last Saturday night, and died Monday in Suburban General Hospital, Bellevue. County detectives say they learned that he had boasted of a big winning in a card game and believe he may have been held up to obtain his winnings. He was shot when he sought to shove away a revolver which the stranger poked in his ribs.

County detectives say they first learned of the shooting through the newspapers and had no opportunity to question the man before his death.

PITT THESPIANS GIVE HOPWOOD SUCCESS

The Pitt Players did what many other similar organizations have tried to do. They presented for the first time on other than a professional stage, "The Best People," comedy success by Avery Hopwood and David Gray. The University of Pittsburgh Thespians produced the play, however, only after their coach, Jane Ellen Hall, made a personal trip to New York to obtain consent.

Prior to the one performance of the satire on the social elite, the players rehearsed in the Y. M. H. A. Building, Bellefield avenue. Both male and co-ed students took part.

Included in the cast were many Pittsburgh girls, among them Betty Wagner, Helen Gerwig, Elizabeth Smith, Meda Fraser and Bernice Gillette. Those having male roles were Edward Burchard, Joseph Felstein, Raymond Neyhart, Carl H. Voss, Robert Kleeb and Alex Kann.

The libellant, who for more than 37 years has been identified with R. G. Dun & Co., and lives at 619 Allegheny avenue, and the respondent were married in New York in 1902. Mrs. Brown at the time being a widow, with one son. In 1926 Mrs. Brown, according to the libellant's testimony, came to Pittsburgh, remained for nine days, packed up and left. Outside of his wife's desire to be with her own son and grandchildren, the testimony showed there was little difference between the couple.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.

If the Democrats had had the party incorporated and listed on the Exchange as "Democratic Hopes and Aspirations, Incorporated," then let somebody buy ten shares to get it started, millions would have bought it on the Exchange that wouldn't think of taking it at the polls.

They buy things there that are worse than Democrats.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

MUSICAL SHOW STAR TO PLAY HERO IN MARION DAVIES' FIRST "TALKIE";

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 7.

FULFILLING the prophecy, Charles King, musical comedy star, has been definitely chosen as leading man for Marion Davies in "The Five O'Clock Girl." Although lacking film experience, the stage star screens like the proverbial million dollars. And, of course, the voice tests were 100 per cent.

Marion is more enthusiastic than ever regarding her first talkie, and the entire company is setting about its work with a relish that speaks big success for the film. Metro has brought together an excellent supporting cast, with such performers as Polly Moran, Aileen Pringle, Carmelita Geraghty and others who may be relied upon to do their parts in making a gala comedy.

One of the very few women directors in the picture business is to direct Clara Bow's next film, "Wild Party." She is Dorothy Arzner, the youngster who has gained prominence on the Paramount lot through her direction of Esther Ralston in several vehicles. Clara Bow's picture, "Get Your Man," and Nancy Carroll and Richard Arlen in "Manhattan Cocktail." It hasn't been definitely decided whether or not there will be dialog sequences in the film.

SEVEN is such a lucky number for Lina Basquette that all her bridal things are being embroidered with that number instead of the usual initials. Lina met her fiance, Peverell Marley, on the seventh of the month, and they will be married on January 7. Lina has given up her big Hollywood home and is living temporarily in an apartment. The wedding will be very quiet and will be held at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ernest Beloher—unless, indeed, the youngsters slip away to another city for the ceremony. June Collyer is to be bridesmaid.

Harold Lloyd's immense Great Danes and St. Bernards were the main attraction at the Hollywood dog show. Harold has a great kennel of them, and each is large as a pony. To feed them costs a moderate sized fortune. They are one of Lloyd's several hobbies. Another prize winner at the show was Director Frank Borzage, who won the honors with two of his wire-haired terriers. The Christie Brothers, who possess some of the finest pups in the film colony, refrained from showing their dogs as they are among the sponsors of the show. They gave the other entrants a break by staying out.

In show business a "grouch bag" is a purse containing funds to tide over the proverbial rainy day. A story built around one of these "banks" of show life has been written by Wallace Smith for Louise Dresser. Louise is to star, and the name is "The Grouch Bag."

CAROL LOMBARD, one-time bathing girl, and more recently under contract to Pathe, has been signed for the second lead in Metro's "Dynamite," which is to be directed by Cecil B. De Mille. Carol is one of Hollywood's most beautiful blondes and has been borrowed from Pathe for the role.

With "Flaming Youth" and "Dancing Daughters," two of the great box-office hits of their seasons, Universal plans another to be called "Flaming Daughters."

It seems that Mexican stars are to stay in style yet a while. Otherwise such a keen showman as "Winnie" Sheehan, of the Fox forces, wouldn't be planning such brilliant futures for the senoritas brought from below the border by Director Robert Flaherty. One of the two is Delia Magana, who is to make her movie bow in Flaherty's Indian picture. The second is Lupita Tovar, hailed as having "the most beautiful hands in the world." Delia has had some stage experience in Mexico City. But Lupita is fresh from school.

HOLLYWOOD DOGS -:- LIKE OTHERS -:- HAVE THEIR DAY

Jiggs, famous canine actor, for instance, is appropriately welcomed when he visits Mary Nolan at the studio where she is playing in "Thirst."

Fred Kohler, featured player, and part of the dog population of his farm, others of the tribe being a Russian wolfhound, a bird dog and a poodle.

Kensington Woman Burned By Gasoline

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Dec. 7.—Mrs. Carl Sopchack, 29, of 460 Ninth street, was slightly burned when gasoline, which she was using to clean clothes, ignited from a hot water heater.

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Your Sunday Dinner

By PRUDENCE PENNY.

Orange Puree.
Barbecued Rabbit.
Mashed Potatoes. Buttered String Beans.
Celery and Lettuce Salad.
Molasses Cake.

FOR the orange puree, place two cups orange juice in a sauce pan, and when it is thoroughly heated add one teaspoon cornstarch mixed with two tablespoons cold water. Cook slowly until clear. Then add one-half cup sugar and a teaspoon grated orange rind. Serve ice cold in sherbet cups.

Disjoint a three-pound rabbit and season with salt and pepper. Mix together four tablespoons vegetable oil and two tablespoons vinegar. Dip the rabbit into this mixture and place on a broiler rack with a very high flame. Turn every 15 minutes and swab with the oil and vinegar. Reduce to a moderate heat after 45 minutes until well cooked.

FOR the molasses cake, dissolve one teaspoon baking soda in two tablespoons warm water. Add one cup molasses, one cup boiling water, one-quarter pound melted butter, and one tablespoon ground ginger. Add three cups pastry flour and beat until smooth. Bake about 30 minutes in a shallow pan in a medium oven.

You can make a quick icing for the cake, by mixing one cup of confectioner's sugar with one tablespoon evaporated milk or cream. Add one tablespoon marshmallow whip and flavor with vanilla or an ounce of bitter chocolate, melted.

PANOCHA—Three cups brown sugar, ¾ cup milk, ¾ pound nuts, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon Blue Ribbon Malt Extract (hop flavored). Mix the sugar, milk and cream of tartar together until the sugar is dissolved. Wipe down the sides of the pan. Boil to the soft ball stage. Remove from fire and add the butter and Blue Ribbon Malt Extract, (hop flavored). Beat until the mixture thickens, add the nuts. Pour into a buttered pan, cut into squares.

ROUND STEAK

NOT so long ago I wrote about the various cheaper cuts of meat.

Among the more popular cuts is the round steak; for one reason, because it is juicy and free from fat and has a somewhat larger amount of meat than have some of the other cuts. The top of the round makes a delicious steak, or it can be used for a roast.

The bottom round is splendid for chopped meat—and I like my onions chopped right in with the meat. Or it can be used for casserole cooking, or for a pot roast. The bottom round is lower in price than the top round.

I don't know of any broth that I like better than the broth made from round steak. Whenever there is an invalid in my house I make broth from the round of beef—and a delicious and nourishing food it is.

IF you are planning on a luscious round steak for dinner, remember that a large thin steak loses more juice in cooking than a small one. The latter may not look as though there were enough in it to feed a hungry family, but if it is equal in weight, it will serve as well. And a two-inch cut from the top of a round of fine beef can be broiled and sliced like a roast.

Round steaks are usually pan-broiled. The pan must be sizzling hot, and the cooking done quickly to retain the juices. Don't season the meat until after it is cooked. No fat need be added to the pan, but the addition of a little butter to the finished steak vastly improves its flavor. And—this is most important—a round steak should be served promptly. For it toughens if it stands even a few moments.

ROUND STEAK is sometimes cut in thin pieces, dipped in milk, then rolled in crumbs and fried in beef fat. A particularly economical method of preparing round steak is to pound flour into it, then to brown it in drippings and add onion and soup stock or strained tomatoes, put a light cover over the steak, and let it simmer for 40 or 50 minutes.

If soup stock is not available, water flavor with catsup and beef extract can be used.

SO many of us think of potatoes in just four terms: baked, boiled, fried and mashed! And yet there are so many, many ways in which potatoes can be served. It is highly derogatory to that indispensable vegetable to think of it merely as an accompaniment of the meat.

For instance, have you ever tried cutting a hole in either a white or sweet potato, inserting a small pork sausage, and baking both sausage and potato together? That's a highly edible and most delicious combination.

Potatoes can always be roasted right along with the meat—and, strangely enough, few housewives realize that potatoes roasted with a joint of pork are marvelous. They take to themselves some of the delicate flavor of the pork, and become doubly good to eat.

THERE are any number of ways in which left-over potatoes can be made wonderful use of. I like to make a cream sauce for my left-overs, using bacon fat sometimes instead of butter, and cutting little pieces of bacon to put right in with the potatoes. Then I heat them, pour my white sauce over them, and have an appetizing dish. Bits of onion, a little pimento often add culinary color to my white sauce, too.

Stuffed potatoes are always good. For the average sized family, six potatoes should be baked. When they are done cut one end off and scoop out the potato's interior, without breaking the skin. Add the yolk of one egg to the scooped out potatoes, a tablespoon of butter, a tablespoon of chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste, and one-half teaspoonful of grated nutmeg. Moisten all with one-half cup of cream or milk, mix well and beat very light. Now refill the skins and return to the oven for a few minutes till very hot and slightly browned, and serve.

DOWN South, they have a special way of frying uncooked potatoes. The potatoes are sliced not lengthwise, but by rounds, and fried in boiling lard. They are brought to the table when a beautiful golden brown, butter is plentifully spread over them, and then they are eaten with relish!

"The Embarkation of the Pilgrims"

Another of the series of historical paintings which are appearing in Sun-Telegraph Color Gravure. This canvas, by Robert Walter Weir, pictures the Pilgrims gathered in prayer on the deck of the Mayflower, just before they sailed on their memorable voyage.

"Pennsylvania Deer"

A most unusual color photography study—a group of native deer in a fall setting, showing minutest detail of coloring from the beautiful animals to the red maples which make the background. The group is one recently created at Carnegie Museum. The deer were obtained in Kane County.

As usual, the Section is alive with scenes of local activities. Street and river scenes — unusual views of Western Pennsylvania—local people—in short, an interesting feature for a Sunday Newspaper.

olate and add 4 eggs, well beaten, whites and yolks together. Sift 2¼ cups flour with ¼ teaspoon baking powder, and a pinch of salt and a teaspoon cinnamon, and add alternately with a cup of milk. Stir well, bake in 3 layers for 20 minutes in moderate oven. Tip out on a sieve and cool. For the filling, cook 2 cups sugar and ⅔ cup milk for 4 minutes, and beat until it thickens, beating in a teaspoon vanilla. Melt 4 squares unsweetened chocolate over boiling water. Spread white filling between the layers and on top of cake, and over this spread the melted chocolate.

RISOTTO—Heat two tablespoons of chicken fat in the top of a double boiler, add two tablespoons of chopped onion, two tablespoons of green pepper or pimentos chopped, one-quarter pound chicken livers. Let fry gently until well browned, stirring constantly. Now add three-quarter cup rice, let fry until a light yellow, then gradually add three cups of hot chicken soup. Boil for five minutes, add salt, pepper and paprika, stir well and let cook over hot water 20 or 30 minutes until tender. Add three tablespoons Parmesan cheese, mix lightly and serve hot with more grated cheese sprinkled over the top.

SPANISH TAMALES — Boil a chicken; chop fine, add three sweet red minced peppers, one-half cup seeded raisins, one-half cup chopped olives and a grated onion, a teaspoon of salt and a pinch of cayenne. Mix to a paste with one and one-half cups yellow cornmeal, adding a little broth to make it of a good consistency. Add four hard boiled eggs, minced, then let cool. Make into rolls about finger length. Lay in corn husks that have been boiled, dried and oiled, and tied at the ends to keep in shape. Put in a frying basket or steamer and boil for two hours in salted water. Serve hot in husks, removing strings. Add thin strips of bacon, if desired.

FUDGE CAKE—Cream 2-3 cup butter with 1 cup sugar. Add 1 cup milk, stir in 2½ cups flour through which a heaping teaspoonful of baking powder has been sifted. Stir in ¼ cup of dissolved chocolate and then add ½ cup English walnuts and three eggs which have been beaten separately. For the frosting, you need 1½ tablespoons butter, ½ cup unsweetened cocoa, 1½ cups confectioner's sugar, a pinch of salt, ¼ cup milk, ½ teaspoonful vanilla. Heat this mixture to boiling point, cook over a low flame for eight minutes. Remove from flame and beat till creamy, and smooth over cake. This icing will cut without breaking.

IRISH STEW—Use lamb as the basis for the stew, to which may be added a few pieces of beef, to give the stew a better flavor. Cut the meat in medium sized pieces, thoroughly brown them in a frying pan. Chop very fine an onion, a tiny bit of garlic, a small bunch of parsley. Brown the onion in a little butter, add the garlic and when that is browned add the parsley. Add the pulp of two tomatoes, salt, black pepper and paprika to taste; a little flour to thicken, and enough water to make a gravy. Pour this over the browned meat, in the stewing pot and cook very slowly until done. Add carrots and potatoes an hour before stew is done, together with a cut up green pepper. Serve very hot.

APPLE DUMPLINGS—Sift together 2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt. Work in with the finger tips 4 tablespoons of butter, and add very gradually about ¾ cup of milk, mixing with the knife to a nice soft dough. Roll out a half inch thick, cut in squares and lay in the center of each an apple, pared and cored. Fill up the centers with sugar and cinnamon and take the corners of the dough, pinching them together. Put in buttered baking pans, dot with sugar and bake in a moderate oven 25 minutes. Serve hot with milk.

LENTILS—Boil one pound of lentils with a three-quarter pound slice of raw smoked ham, until both are tender. If the ham is not very salty, add salt to taste. Remove the ham, drain and mash the lentils. Add one medium sized finely chopped onion browned in three tablespoons of butter, and the ham cut in small pieces. Place in a buttered casserole, cover with grated cheese and bake until the cheese is brown.

* * *

STUFFED PEPPERS, ITALIAN STYLE—Mix the following ingredients together in a bowl: Half pound ground pork meat, one cup grated Italian cheese, two eggs, half cup bread crumbs, quarter cup raisins, salt and pepper to taste, and a sprig chopped parsley. Wash and clean the peppers and stuff with above mixture. Put in a deep frying pan in which you have placed three tablespoons butter. Cover and cook over a slow fire until tender.

CREAMED CODFISH—Pick one cupful of codfish. Place in a spider and fill, covering with cold water. Stir a moment over the fire, then drain off the water. Now cover the fish with one and one-half pints of milk and a large lump of butter. Stir into a saucepan a cup of cream, two heaping tablespoons of flour. When the milk on the codfish is about to boil, mix the cream mixture with it, and when it has thickened sufficiently, take it from the stove and stir in an egg. Serve at once.

* * *

COTTAGE PUDDING—Place six slices of old bread or toast in a pudding dish. Heat 2 cups of milk; whip two eggs, stir in the milk. When scalded stir in 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter. Let all come to a boil, stirring all the time. Lastly, stir in raisins if desired. Take the mixture from the fire, pour over the bread, sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar, put in oven and bake for half hour, or until the top is firm. Serve either hot or cold with cream. This pudding will keep for a week in the icebox, and be good

RAINBOW CHASING

Michael Winchester, Rich Young Man, Visits Madge At the Hospital

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Madge Sayer, young and beautiful, lives in a dingy New York apartment with her father, an unsuccessful inventor, who always plans for riches that never come. Madge seeks thrills and gaiety, and longs for the intoxication of joyous living. At a party given by Frances Storrs, a friend, she meets Carroll Dudley, handsome artist, aviator and "man about town." Dudley lays siege to Madge, who is warned by Frances Storrs. She dines in his luxurious studio apartment. He takes her on a midnight airplane ride and following several days' rushing asks her to pose for him. Madge agrees on certain conditions. These he accepts, but after posing Dudley takes Madge in his arms and professes his love. She assures him of her own love and speaks of marriage which Dudley avoids. Over an accidentally "broken-in" wire Madge hears him called "a Prince of Cads." He allays her suspicions, but when he is out a woman appears in the studio. "I am Mrs. Carroll Dudley," she announces to Madge. Carroll explains that love made him hide his marriage but now he is to be free. Madge accepts his explanations. Unexpectedly she returns from a visit to her father now staying in the country and finds that Carroll has exhibited her painting to a party of his friends. In a rage she rips the canvas with a stiletto and rushes into the street. She wakes up in a hospital room with flowers and nurses, and a message from the rich young Michael Winchester whose car had run her down.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IX.

IT was the day after this that Michael Winchester's card was brought to Madge.

Unconsciously associating great wealth with age, Madge smiled as she kept him waiting while she donned the prettiest of her negligees, talking to herself as she touched her mouth with lipstick.

"Give the poor old dear a thrill! I suppose he feels terrible about having bowled me over. And he might as well get a chance to admire his presents."

But no old man entered the room when Madge was ready to receive Winchester. He was apparently in the early 30s—a very distinguished looking man, if not a handsome one. He was tall, and his hair was dark, as were his eyes. When he smiled, his whole face lighted up, and he was smiling now as he came forward to greet Madge, so prettily propped up on her pillows.

"I don't know what to say to you, Miss Sayre," he began. "What does one say to a lady when one's chauffeur has been so unpardonably careless?"

Madge was so surprised she could hardly reply. Why hadn't her father told her that Michael Winchester was young—young and almost good-looking?

"Oh, it really wasn't anything," she managed, "and I have to thank you, Mr. Winchester, for all these pretty things you have sent me."

"Oh, those!" he smiled as he drew a chair beside the bed. "You would have laughed if you could have seen me ordering them.

"I had no idea of how awe-inspiring, how terrifying, these ladies can be who sell the sort of thing you are wearing. I was never so frightened in my life, and I am sure none of them believed me—about the niece, I mean."

Madge laughed with him. She felt strangely at ease with this man, and forgot entirely his great social importance and the glamor of his vast fortune.

"How funny you are!" she laughed. "You were frightened of them?"

"I am still trembling," he assured her gravely, "from the all-wise look that the first saleswoman gave me when I mentioned a niece. But this is not what I came to say," he went on. "My visit, Miss Sayre, is to tell you in all sincerity of how inexpressibly shocked I am that my man should have run you down like that. I am always preaching safety, and if he had not a wife and three children, he would have left my service instantly."

"Oh, I'm glad you didn't fire him," she said quickly, realizing that the blindness of her daze might have brought a small tragedy to the chauffeur's family.

"But I want you to assure me yourself that I am forgiven," he continued earnestly.

Touched at his evident distress, Madge said warmly:

"Mr. Winchester, it was not your fault, and I have nothing to forgive. Won't you please believe that? Let's not talk of it any more."

In vain he protested. Madge was adamant.

"You will make me ill again if you argue with me," she pouted adorably.

"Well, we must find other ways rather than that," he replied. "But there is one favor I would ask—if you feel in a favor-granting mood."

"I always grant favors on Wednesday afternoons," Madge smiled at him. "And today is Wednesday."

"Splendid!" he enthused. "Then the favor I would ask is that you will come with me as my guest to recuperate in Atlantic City!"

Madge's eyes narrowed as she regarded him. Atlantic City would do her good; the sea breezes would rapidly restore her to health—but to be asked to go there with Michael Winchester!

His next remark reassured her.

"I doubt if I can get away yet myself," he said, seemingly unconscious of Madge's suspicions, "but you and your father could go as soon as you are fit to be moved—the doctors say in a couple of days. You shall have everything I can think of to make things easy for you."

Madge was all contrition for her secret doubts, so her gratitude was the more spontaneous.

"It's awfully kind of you, Mr. Winchester—"

"Just as I am asking favors, may I ask another one?" he interrupted her.

"Your favors seem easy to grant."

"Can we drop this 'Mr.' and 'Miss' business?" he smiled at her. "Couldn't we be Michael and Madge as we are not going to court to fight about the accident? You know that's one of the things against being me—people meet me and they imagine a golden wall surrounding me—and so few can ever bring themselves to call me Michael. Will you, Madge?"

"Of course I will, Mr. Winchester!" and they both laughed. "Michael, I mean!"

"There's one other tiny matter," he told her, as he rose to go. "I want you to be as comfortable as my guest as I can make you. So, will you please not make a fuss over details, because it's all settled and done and can't be changed."

"What's all this mystery about?" Madge asked, as she gave him her hand, which he kissed very gravely.

Michael waited until he reached the door. Then he turned. "Feminine mystery," he said. "And don't try to refuse, or I'll run you down again as soon as you get out of the hospital, Atlantic City. Girls can't go to Atlantic City without clothes," and without waiting for her reply, he left.

As he drove downtown, his thoughts were with his godmother, Mrs. Lavinia Van Tyn, toward whose home he was bound. He had always adored her.

In her eightieth year, Lavinia Van Tyn was all lavender and old lace. She had a wealth of silvery white hair, and she leaned on an ivory-topped ebony cane.

"Who is she, Michael?" she asked in her musical old voice when he had kissed her withered cheek, and had drawn a stool near the high-backed armchair in which she always sat.

"I always said you were a witch, Godmother," he replied. "You have been flying over the city on your broomstick."

"I hope it is June Wilson," she went on. "Not that I have to be a witch when it comes to you, Michael. I can read you like an open book, and when you come here with an expression for which I have been waiting—it isn't difficult to know that some pretty girl has pierced your armor. But it is June Wilson?"

"Not such a clever witch as I thought, he retorted. "June Wilson is a very pretty girl, but there are thousands of others just like her in society."

"Then the girl is a nobody?" asked Lavinia Van Tyn. "Not that it matters. You can do as you like, Michael, and I'm not sure that it isn't good for you. How did you meet her?"

"My chauffeur, Collins, knocked her down with the car, and it was perfectly horrible for me to see that exquisite girl lying like a broken flower—you don't know how lovely she is. Her name is Madge Sayre, and although her father is poor, she doesn't want me to do anything for her."

"You sound very serious," the old lady smiled at him. "Knowing how particular you are, and that no girl ever seems to please you entirely, she must be very lovely indeed!"

"Hair the color of a daffodil—long silken hair, Godmother. Eyes—violet pools, and a mouth enough to send a man insane. And what a figure—such poise, such exquisite hands!"

"And when are you going to marry her, my dear?"

But at that he laughed queerly, and got up, standing by the windows that overlooked that gem of a garden. Then he turned slowly.

"Godmother! I'm not the marrying kind."

Puppy Love -:- By Fanny Darrell

© 1928 by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

YOU'VE all heard of it; probably you've all experienced it, those dear bygone days when you have languished in the throes of "puppy love." Ah me, what a problem life was then! No one understood you; no one cared for you; you wished you were dead; you dreamed of eloping; you knew you were going to pine away like your favorite heroine and THEN everybody would be sorry when they saw you so pale and wan and sweet and forgiving!

It's a joke to you now, though, isn't it? And how often you think of it when that frisky wire-haired pup comes poking his cold nose into your warm hand! There's nothing sweeter nor more loyal nor forgiving nor comforting than the love of a puppy! To him you're a goddess and his trusting love inspires you with a finer sense of love and loyalty. And when the greatest love of all comes, then you can understand the puppy love that has been such a comfort.

Olina Resumes Her Love Contest With Mary

THE attitude of Philip Veritzen toward Princess Olina of Transvania would be a seven days' wonder to his intimates if they could see it. While his natural arrogance—explained to me by his revelation that he was closely related, though by "bar sinister," to the royal family of Transvania—always has been softened by flamboyant courtesy where women are concerned, yet he is said never to forget even in the presence of those he most admires that "wherever the Douglas sits is the head of the table." But whatever he is in the same room with the young princess for whose future and that of his son he entertains such fantastic plans, his attitude is so self-effacing, so humble as to be almost servile.

I could forgive his resentment if any other young girl—Mary Harrison, for instance—had kept him waiting, while she so prolonged her greeting of her hostess that he was left in the position of standing awkwardly by with no opportunity of even uttering a greeting. But when Princess Olina threw him a casual apology for what really amounted to a rudeness on her part, his smile was as deprecating as if he, not she, were at fault.

"My dear child!" he said, with one of his most impressive bows, "I am only too happy to await your pleasure. But," he turned to me with what appeared to be genuine concern, "I have been so anxious ever since I heard the news of the accident from Noel. I was overjoyed to hear you tell Miss Lincoln just now that the little chap is so much better. Are you sure that all danger of any complications is over?"

Even as I answered him with the physician's assurance to us that all was well with our boy, I noted with secret amusement his hesitancy before his utterance of the name by which Princess Olina was known to everyone except the few in her secret. I felt that he was distinctly disgruntled because he could not give her full title, and wondered that Noel, who by Olina's own request had been kept in ignorance of her identity, did not notice his father's odd behavior.

But a glance at the young violinist told me that his thoughts were focused on but one thing, the query as to Mary Harrison's whereabouts. His dark eyes were roving from doorway to window to lawn as if at any moment he might spy her. I might not have been so sure of his state of mind, had I not weeks earlier been the recipient of his agitated confession that he loved Dicky's lovely willful young niece.

I do not know that Olina saw his preoccupation, guessed its meaning and deliberately put a question whose answer she already knew. But from a sudden glitter in her eyes, which in her tenderer moods are like great velvety pansies, I surmised that her question held a drop of venom in it.

"Where is Mary?" she said. "I haven't seen her since the accident except when we have called here to inquire about Junior."

"I sent her off today for a drive," I answered, hoping devoutly that Olina would not insist upon the name of Mary's cavalier. "She has been perfectly tireless ever since the accident. I really do not know what I should have done without her and Marion. But today I didn't need her, and I fancied that she was looking worn, so I banished her."

"Ah!" Olina accompanied the exclamation with a significant little laugh. "That explains the activities of our friend, Mr. Jackson. I telephoned him this afternoon asking him to come over for a game of tennis—Noel had gone to meet his father and I was lonely—" she flashed a provocative glance at Noel and he smiled back at her—dutifully—it is the only word to describe it. "And Georges—George—I never shall get your American names straight—said that he was going over to Montauk for luncheon, but he never hinted the name of the person he was going to take with him. Just wait till I see him. I'll teach him not to be so secretive. Of course that's where Mary is, not so?"

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Powdered Milk as Food for Infants

IT IS difficult and sometimes impossible for a mother to obtain dependable and safe cow's milk. Weaning time has come, or because of the conditions of the mother's health, it may be essential to begin bottle feeding. In this event what is the mother to do? She will have to depend upon dry milk, milk powder or evaporated milk.

DR. COPELAND

This preparation is made from fresh cow's milk. It contains all of the normal ingredients of milk, except the water. This preparation is the result of passing the liquid milk over revolving cylinders, heated to a high temperature. The heat is sufficient to dry up the water and to leave the solid elements. There is another process by which the milk is sprayed into a hot cylinder. But the result is practically the same.

Of course, I believe in the use of the prepared fresh fluid milk. In my opinion, this possesses intangible qualities which make it preferable. By adding orange juice or tomato juice to the diet, however, the child will prosper on food mixtures made from dry milk.

It is a common thing to place the fault for the failure of a child's development upon the particular kind of food it takes. If it develops rickets or scurvy, or some other trouble, it is natural to think the milk is at fault. As a matter of fact, however, there are other elements which must be considered. As I have indicated, by giving the supplementary foods, the dry milk can be taken with safety.

We do not look for scurvy in children as they did in the olden times. As a matter of fact, scurvy as it was known then, is never seen at present. But there are certain conditions where there is lack of development which may indicate a low degree of scurvy. The giving of orange juice or tomato juice will prevent this possibility.

There are some writers on infant feeding who feel infants fed on dry milk are just as well off as those who have modified cow's milk. As I have indicated, it is not my choice to give the dry milk in preference to cow's milk. But in those cases where it is difficult to obtain cow's milk, or where there is any question about the quality of the cow's milk, it is wise to use the manufactured milk.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

One Gift Sufficient

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

If a man gives a girl an engagement ring on her birthday, is it necessary to give her a birthday present also? Or does the ring serve for both purposes, it being a rather expensive diamond? What would be appropriate to give besides the ring? Must it be jewelry or would flowers be a suitable gift?

READER.

SUCH a beautiful gift as an engagement ring should not be combined with any other ring. Let the ring have all the glory. It's a delightful idea to give it as a birthday gift, too.

The Tactful Hostess

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have noticed when at dinner parties that some hostesses make a point of eating (or "making believe" that they are eating) until every guest has finished eating. Is this necessary in order not to make one feel that he is holding up the table?

DINER-OUT.

YES, it is necessary for a hostess to eat—or to pretend that she is eating—until every guest has finished. Indeed, this is one of the most important things that she must do at her dinner party. If she does it unobtrusively—as she should—the guest will not notice that he is the last one eating. And hostesses, accustomed hostesses, get so expert in this final "nibbling" that even seasoned guests think that the hostess is enjoying hugely those last mouthfuls.

Serving Lemon

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When sliced lemon is served in a dish with toothpicks how would one use it in tea?

WONDERING.

THE toothpicks are sometimes put in a piece of lemon so that, with the toothpick you will lift the piece and put it "gracefully" into your tea.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, December 8

ALTHOUGH this day may be predicted as a very lively and enterprising one, with many projects assuming unusual activity, yet there are certain planetary configurations that do justify the presage of satisfaction. The finances are under an unfriendly Jupiter, afflicted by its solar as well as lunar aspect. There may be unwonted call for funds or indulged extravagances or speculative hazards which make for thwarted efforts. There may be new opportunities and fresh agreements, but in all be conservative and wary as to finances.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of splendid activity, with new connections and good opportunities in new directions, but in all the finances are in jeopardy and call for conservatism and calm judgment.

A child born on this day may be keen, vigorous and enterprising, but this very aggressive tendency may defeat its financial success unless calm judgment is used.

The horoscope is the map of man's Secret Will—the terrible, all-revealing ground-plan of his own eternal purposes.—J. C. Johnston.

For, no matter how she suffers, she does it in imported clothes and the latest Paris hats—and no matter how she dies, she never dies of monotony!

And, whatever she does, it is always something exciting—even if it's only shooting somebody. It is never counting the linen for the Monday laundry or making out the grocery list or cleaning out the refrigerator or finding red ants in the butter.

HELEN ROWLAND

And, whatever her husband may be—a housebreaker or a prizefighter or even a popular dancing man—he is never HUNGRY!

He never accuses her of hiding the things, or leaves the soap on the bathroom floor, or reads the "funnies" aloud to her, or is fussy about the way she pinches the tooth-paste, or acts as though he suspected she had PRAYED for rain on Sunday, just to spoil his golf.

* * *

And, even though he may have been shipwrecked on a desert island without a safety-razor for weeks, he is always freshly shaven and never needs a hair-cut.

* * *

His front hair is always neatly waved and pomaded and never standing up in tufts, his nose never peels in the sun, and he hasn't any bald-spot on which he rubs a tonic.

* * *

He always says goodby, tenderly and fondly, instead of just shouting at her as he slams the front door.

* * *

And when he returns, after a separation, he rushes in and clasps her in his arms as though it had seemed like a million years, instead of just throwing down his fishing tackle, pecking her on the cheek, and remarking, "Gee! It's good-to-get-home-what-we-got-for-dinner?"

* * *

He never argues with the waiter over the dinner check, and never growls at the expense of taking a taxicab; or inquires what she paid for her imported negligee or has a brain-storm over her charge account.

* * *

He always kisses her without having to be prompted, and never with his eye on the clock and his hand on the door-knob. And his stenographer is never young and prettier than SHE is!

* * *

Ah, yes, the life of a screen heroine is all romance and sentiment and murder and Paris clothes and variety and excitement! Whereas, almost any normal married woman would welcome a fire or a robbery or a case of ptomaine poisoning—just for a change from the eternal MONOTONY!

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

AROUND THE CORNER

By ERIC HEATH.

THE girl was hanging on desperately.

The day had come, when it was necessary to count—not nickels, but pennies. The evenings were long and dreary, because she didn't buy newspapers any more. To ride on a trolley car, she now considered a wild extravagant luxury. She ate once a day, at a little Greek place where she could almost satisfy her ravenous appetite for 40 cents.

And yet, she spent such agonies of care and consideration over her clothes, that, when she walked down Hollywood boulevard, she might easily have been mistaken for a movie star. As it was, she was just one of the pushing, anxious-faced horde of filmdom's "extras."

It was something she had heard often in her childhood on a farm in Missouri, something her mother had said, whenever life seemed specially hard, "You can never tell, dear, what's just around the corner," that, more than anything else, kept her going on and on.

But she had gone around one corner after another, to find the same old thing—blighting discouragement.

One evening, feeling she could not bear to stay cooped up in her dingy room for another moment, the girl went for a walk. She was tired, utterly disheartened, and, in spite of herself, she could not help looking with envy at the throngs of gay merrymakers, hurrying past to theaters, cafes, and motion pictures houses.

Her bitterness and loneliness drove her to seek a quiet side street. She turned a corner, and found herself on a residential avenue, and, three blocks further on, she came to the last house in sight.

Too engrossed with her own thoughts to realize that she was in an isolated district, she kept on.

Suddenly, she heard a rustling movement at her side, and two towering figures emerged from behind the bushes in a vacant lot. The next instant, they had stepped up to the girl, and she saw that the one closer to her was leveling a revolver at her. Without giving her time to scream, a hoarse, menacing voice demanded in her ear:

"No noise, get me? One sound outer you, and you're done for. Hand over that there pocketbook, quick."

The girl clutched her pocketbook frantically in both hands. A tumult of emotions surged through her, anger, indignation and desperation. For an instant she stood motionless, before she could manage to make herself speak.

"Listen," she said, and her strained voice sounded strange to her, "I've only got four dollars, and a little over. That's every cent I have in the world. I can't give it to you. I haven't any job. It's all the money I have. I'm telling you the truth."

"You better be quick!" warned his companion. "This ain't no foolin' business."

"It's not for me, either," the girl said, with passionate earnestness. "I can't give it to you. If I had more, I would. Can't you be decent? There are plenty of rich people you can hold up."

"You'd better quit talkin' and hand it over, the man with the gun returned, his voice menacing.

"I tell you I can't. It's only four dollars. That doesn't mean anything to you. Give me a chance—"

The girl saw the man at her side make a swift, jerky movement. She felt a blow on the side of her head, and then she seemed to be falling into a black, bottomless pit, down, down down . . .

With returning consciousness, she head a voice. At first she could not make out the words, but finally the syllables became clear:

"I tried to get to you in time. I guessed what was up, and started to run. But I was too late. Do you feel very bad now?

Her eyelids fluttered up, and she saw that a man was bending over her, where she still lay on the pavement.

"Did they take my pocketbook?" she asked faintly.

"I'm afraid so," was the reply. "Too bad. Did you lose very much?"

"Four dollars!" There was such a note of pathos, of despair in the two words that the man stared down at her with a look of surprise.

"Fortunately, my car had a blow-out just up the road," he explained. "I was on my way to a garage for help, when I happened to look up this way, and saw what was going on. If you'll allow me to help you, I'll be only too glad to take you home in my car."

The girl returned a feeble "Thank you," and he assisted her to her feet. Her head felt dizzy, and, for the first few steps she tottered. The man put his arm around her shoulders.

While the mechanic from the garage was repairing the blow-out, the man sat in the back of the car with the girl.

"I can't understand why those thugs should have hit you," he declared indignantly. "Usually they are content, if they get away with the money. Of course, if you had resisted—"

"But I did resist," the girl put in. "I begged them not to take my pocketbook. I told them—" She stopped suddenly noticing that he was again gazing at her with surprise.

"It's my guess that you're in the pictures," the man said, as if in an attempt to divert her mind from the painful episode of the holdup. "I'm ashamed to say I don't just recall your name."

The girl gave a flickering little smile. "You wouldn't know it anyway," she answered. "I'm an 'extra,' if you can call that being a 'picture actress,'" she added wearily.

"I see." The man nodded. "I'm in the game myself," he went on. "I'd like to see you sometime. When you feel well enough, drop in and ask for me, won't you?"

He handed her a card.

When they drove up to the curb in front of her shabby boarding house, the girl got out of the car and thanked him.

Reaching her room, she dropped on the sofa. The card fluttered from her hand to the floor. She picked it up, and looked at the name engraved on it. It was a name she had always seen before in electric lights.

The girl never knew it but just before she had an interview with the casting director, the star who had given her his card had said to the director:

"Here's a kid who actually had the nerve to resist two thugs for the sake of keeping her four dollars. It seems to me there's drama in that, don't you think so?"

Evidently the casting director had thought so, for he had given the girl a "bit" in the picture for which he was then casting. It was a good "bit," and, to the girl, more precious than any leading role ever was to a star.

To her mother, that night, she wrote:

$15,000 Set as Price of Leg By Jury

The value of a leg was placed at $15,000 by a jury in Common Pleas Court. Andrew Lutski, 26, of Carnegie, was awarded that sum against Henry Hirsch trading as the Contractors Machinery and Supply Company. He charged that on May 29, 1926, he was riding a motorcycle in Carnegie and was struck by a truck of the company. His left leg was amputated as a result of the accident.

Salesgirl Awarded $10,000 in Auto Crash

A $10,000 verdict against Attorney Edward A. Sheinberg was returned by a Federal Court jury for Pearle Ingram, 28, a saleswoman, of Bellewes Creek, N. C. Judge R. M. Gibson instructed the jury to bring in such a verdict after counsel had reached an agreement. Miss Ingram testified that last Easter Sunday she was struck by Sheinberg's auto in Negley avenue and suffered permanent injuries.

Political Campaign Expenses Reported

Edward R. Frey, treasurer of the Eighteenth Ward Al Smith Club, has reported expenditures totaling $265.65 and receipts amounting to the same sum in his report to the Clerk of Courts. The receipts included 100 $1 contributions. The Millvale Republican campaign committee reported receipts of $163 and expenditures totaling $160.50.

HER HUSBAND'S HAIR WAS FULL OF ITCHY DANDRUFF

Turning Gray, Too, and It Made Him Look Old and Untidy.

BEGAN GIVING HIM TREATMENT AT HOME

"I wish you could see the marvelous change in the appearance of his hair and scalp since I began rubbing into his scalp a little of this Lea's Hair Tonic—I figured if women could stimulate the growth and rid themselves of gray hairs and unhealthy scalp conditions with it—a man could do the same," declared a lady customer at the drug store.

"His scalp is as clean and healthy looking as a new born baby's, and Lea's Hair Tonic brought back the color to every gray hair in his head. Business friends say Harry looks years younger—yet never suspect how I worked rubbing in the Lea's with my finger tips. Gee, results were so splendid I began using it, too." Mrs. A. M. K.

Men like it for the way it stimulates the growth of hair and the way it rids the scalp of dandruff, and when their gray hairs start coming back to original color they are amazed. Lea's restores the scalp roots and hair to proper working conditions, which produce healthy, natural looking hair in abundance. It positively will stimulate the growth of hair on a larger percentage of bald heads than any other known tonic. Druggists have it, or send dollar bill to Lea Tonic Company, Brentwood, Md., for bottle and directions by return mail.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Social Entertainments This Week Nearly All for Buds

ARE you finding it difficult to feel "Christmasy" too? If there were only a few inches of snow or at least a flake or two scurrying here and there with the dead leaves it would be easier, wouldn't it, to be Yuletide-minded? With that elusive visitor known as Christmas spirit absent from our hearts, how can we be tempted into crowded stores when a book and a fireside seat lure us? And Christmas is only two weeks away from Tuesday!

As yet there's no suggestion of the Yuletide in the social entertainments. Still the debutante holds sway. This week practically all the social events have been in honor of the buds of the season.

Next week the situation will be the same, but the following week when those in the school and college group come speeding home for the Yuletide vacation, there'll be a change. Those young people who have been busy studying all season are going to make the most of their holiday.

ONE of the debutante events planned for next week is a dinner Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Jones, III, will give in their Beechwood boulevard home on Wednesday. A theater party at the Pitt will follow, and then a theater supper. The guest of honor is Louise Latimer Reed, debutante daughter of the W. Edgar Reeds.

IT'S been at least a week, I believe, since there's been a debut. So in this, the but season, a debut today adds variety to the social calendar. Mrs. Alan C. Stevenson is presenting her daughter, Peggy Lyan Stevenson, at a tea this afternoon in the Twentieth Century Club.

Southern smilax, ferns, palms and chrysanthemums are used in decorating the clubrooms. Mrs. Stevenson and her mother, Mrs. Thomas Wallace Smith, are receiving with the bud. Peggy is wearing a frock of orchid transparent velvet, fashioned with long, tight-fitting sleeves, and an uneven hem-line, edged with tulle of the same shade. She is carrying a bouquet of pink roses, orchids and lilies of the valley, the gift of her father. Mrs. Stevenson's gown is in hydrangea chiffon and her hat of felt in the same shade. She is wearing a corsage of orchids. Her mother is wearing amethyst velvet, and a hat of the same hue.

Mrs. Stevenson's aids are: Mrs. W. Harry Williams, Mrs. Robert E. Stewart, Miss Alice L. Biggert, Mrs. J. D. Berg, Mrs. A. L. Smith, Mrs. Wallace W. Smith, Mrs. Thomas W. Smith, Jr., Miss Helen Smith, Mrs. Frank R. McCance, Mrs. John Lloyd Uhler, Mrs. Walter E. Stevenson, Mrs. Edwin L. Stevenson, Mrs. William D. Stevenson, Mrs. Carl V. Stevenson, Mrs. Chambers McKibbin, Miss Mabel Gillespie, Mrs. Horace Forbes Baker and Mrs. Almer Hamilton Orr.

PITTSBURGH will be well represented at the Sloan-Rutan wedding in Ardmore tomorrow. In addition to those I've already mentioned, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lewis, of Aylesboro avenue, are planning to attend.

* * *

MRS. CLARK M. GEORGE, of North Negley avenue, entertained at tea yesterday afternoon in her home. The tea table in the dining room was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, while pink roses were used in the other rooms. The aides were Mrs. Clarence Close, Mrs. Charles F. Finley, Mrs. H. Fred Mercer, Mrs. Fred Kleibacker, Mrs. Mary Rhodes and Mrs. Thomas M. Scott.

* * *

THE program for the dinner to be given tonight in the Heinz House for faculty and administrative women of the University of Pittsburgh will consist of a symposium on the book "Kindergarten or College," by Max McConn, dean of Lehigh University. Miss Thyrsa W. Amos, dean of women, will lead the discussion. Mrs. Lotte Olga Lohstetter, of the modern language department, is chairman of arrangements, assisted by Miss Blossom Henry, Miss Marion Griggs, Miss Mary Lou Stevenson, Mrs. Virginia Gatto and Miss Santin Cosentino.

HENRY ROSENFELT, of Oakwood street, East End, announce the engagement of his daughter, Miss Helen Louise Rosenfelt, to Edward William Henry, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward William Henry, of Hermitage street. A spring wedding is planned.

* * *

MRS. MARGARET FRIEL, of Brushton avenue, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Agnes Rose Friel, and Joseph G. Brant, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brant, of Wilkinsburg, which was solemnized November 28.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. M. A. MARCUS, of Center avenue, will receive Sunday night from 9 to 12 o'clock in the ballroom of the William Penn Hotel in honor of their twentieth wedding anniversary. No cards have been issued.

* * *

ALPHA CHI OMEGA will hold a benefit bridge party tomorrow afternoon in the Congress of Clubs. The proceeds will be used to promote the altruistic work of the fraternity.

STARS TO BOOST SEALS ON AIR

The message of the Christmas seal will be sent out to the nation tonight in a radio program whose principals will be the leading theatrical stars now playing in the city, orchestras, vaudeville stars and prominent local vocal talent. The program is broadcast through the courtesy of KDKA on behalf of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, which organization is now in the midst of its annual Christmas seal sale. Mary Nash, regular annual purchaser of the seals, will have a prominent place on the program, and following her performance of "The Command to Love" will go before the microphone and discuss "Christmas Seals," a subject selected by herself. Ferdinand Gottschalk, of the same company, will contribute a number of his own selection. William Hodge has approved the entertainment and several members of "Straight Thru the Door" cast have volunteered their services. Jack Donahue has promised to hurry from his dressing room on the conclusion of "Rosalie" and put on a little radio stunt all his own. Bobby Heath, comedian and writer of song hits, and Dake, Curtis and company, with other acts promised by the vaudeville theaters.

Tracy-Brown's Orchestra, broadcasting from the William Penn Hotel, will open the program at 10:30 p. m., and from that time on until the early morning hours the program will swing back and forth between the William Penn Hotel and the Fort Pitt studio.

DRIVE ADDS 705 MEMBERS TO C. OF C.

The sales army of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce working to increase the membership and sustaining fund of the organization for more energetic prosecution of the chamber's five big community objectives, has added 705 members to the chamber by the drive thus far. The largest luncheon attendance of workers was seen yesterday and team members declared that the big work of the campaign would be done today.

There will be no report luncheon today, but a dinner in the auditorium of the chamber at 6 o'clock instead, at which all team members are expected to bring in their final reports, the directors of the chamber having decided to close the campaign, as far as the intensive drive is concerned, tonight as originally programmed.

In a brief address to the sales army yesterday at luncheon, George R. Wallace, former president of the chamber, said that there have been times in the history of Pittsburgh when prosperity came in unbounded measure as the result of natural bounty and sturdy individual enterprises. Our great store of high-class coal gave us a great advantage in iron and steel manufacture and we made the most out of it for several decades.

"On the other hand," continued the speaker, "there have been at least two periods in our history when individual enterprise did not suffice but had to be reinforced by vigorous community action to save our industries from a serious decline. One was in 1820 when the building of the national highway changed the course of traffic and travel, and we lost a large part of our river trade. By united action we then induced the Legislature to build the canal and the tide of travel and trade set our way again, and we flourished greatly until about 1850, when the era of railroad building set in and for years no railroad came our way. It was only then by means of another period of energetic and concerted community action that we secured railroads and marked industrial development began again."

"In one of our great steel plants," the speaker concluded, "7,500 men now produce twice as large a tonnage as was formerly produced by 12,500 men." "The Chamber of Commerce has a plan for bringing the new industries here," said Mr. Wallace, "to keep the displaced labor from drifting away to other communities, and our business interests all owe it to themselves to get behind the chamber and give it their enthusiastic support."

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

THE march of WCAE officials on the Federal Radio Commission ended very abruptly shortly after noon yesterday following a short conference with members of the board. What transpired is secret information, but an amicable settlement was reached. This means that there will be some improvement in the local broadcasting situation.

Last night it was reported that WCAE would receive a Canadian wavelength close to the old 461.3 meters. In this case a special arrangement must be made by the Commission with Canadian radio officials.

Another report was that the wave channel around 245.8 meters would be cleared so that it would be possible to get WCAE without interference.

In either case fans will be assured of better reception of WCAE but the adjustment most satisfactory to most listeners would be WCAE on a high wavelength.

It is believed that Councilman W. Y. English and congressman from the Pittsburgh district, conferring with counsel for WCAE, accepted the hearing which was scheduled to take place today. Witnesses who had gone to Washington to testify at the hearing are expected home this afternoon.

The real meaning of "Der Freischutz" is "Free Marksman," of a marksman who uses charmed bullets. The story of the opera is founded on an old German tradition that whoever sells his soul to Zamiel, the Demon Hunter, will receive seven magic bullets with promises of a fresh supply in exchange for any other victims obtained for the Demon.

9:00 P. M.—True Story hour.

Mary and Bob are about ready to celebrate the first anniversary of their travels and are therefore starting on a new tour of the United States.

Mary and Bob's first stop will be Philadelphia, where they will witness a historical tableau of the United States. Appropriate music will feature this scene. As the two wanderers see smoke other interesting sights the Liberty Bell, Betsy Ross house and the workshop of Benjamin Franklin.

An unusual twist in their role as seekers of truth that is stranger than fiction, Mary and Bob will tell their radio public a true story that has been confided to them. This week it will be the tale of a young girl who stepped out of the pages of the past. The aftermath arrives, her eyes are opened, and she comes to a realization of what she has done.

Fifty years of Pioneering and Achievement

The original Tide Water Company was organized in 1878. It is among the oldest in the industry. It laid the first pipe line across the Allegheny Mountains. It carried the first pipe line to Atlantic tide water. It began to build its refinery at Bayonne, N. J., when only an old farmhouse and a marsh occupied the town site. Always it has pioneered . . . in producing, in refining, in selling. And so prudent, so far-seeing has been its direction that Tide Water today stands as one of the most powerful and successful oil companies in the entire world.

Today Tide Water owns, or controls, its own sources of supply. It operates a great fleet of tank steamers to every corner of the world. The equipment at the Tide Water Refinery at Bayonne is of the finest and most advanced type. Leading technical colleges send their students and teachers to study Tide Water methods, machines, and craftsmanship.

Tide Water distribution is world wide. Its thousands of outlets, wholesale and retail, are rapidly growing in number. And its continued increase in volume of retail sales indicates the growing preference of the motoring public for Tide Water's featured products . . . VEEDOL MOTOR OIL and TYDOL GASOLINE

Today Tide Water is particularly proud to be able to commemorate the Fiftieth Anniversary of the company . . . with the finest motor fuel in its history . . . Hi-test TYDOL, a true premium gasoline . . . at no premium in price!

Girl Thought Dead, Revived, Later Dies

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 7.—Apparently dead, Mary Louise Hardt, 9, Marlowe school girl, was revived in a local hospital by the intubation process and chatted several minutes with members of her family. She later succumbed.

The child was dead, so far as the stetoscope revealed, physicians said. A tube was inserted in her larynx and air admitted into her lungs. Almost instantly she regained consciousness. After speaking with her parents she lapsed into a coma and died. Diphtheria was given as the cause of death.

TOWNSHIP HEADS URGE HIGHER STATE REWARD

Resolutions calling for increases in the various classifications for the State Reward and indorsement of the resolution passed by the State Association, requesting the setting aside of 1c of the gasoline tax yearly for payment of the State Reward, were adopted at the annual meeting of the Allegheny County Association of Township Supervisors, in the Chamber of Commerce.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: J. E. Long, Forward township, president; J. S. Greer, Plum township, vice president; Attorney Louis Vaira, Forward township, secretary.

FINE FOR CHILDREN!

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a safe vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the eliminative tract. Not a nasty cathartic or a habit-forming medicine, but a safe, pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards, a widely known family physician of Ohio, prescribed these tablets for many years in his own practice. Children from 2½ years up are greatly helped by them and like to take them. Recognized by their olive color. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets overcome those irritable spells that many children are subject to, keep their bodies in active, healthy condition, skin clear and eyes bright with the light of perfect health. 15c, 30c and 60c sizes.

Plainsman Song.....Bliss

The Pittsburgh Male Chorus, with Harvey B. Gaul directing, gave its opening concert last night in Carnegie Music Hall. Mr. Gaul built a program of pleasant length and many moods, the most consistently musical artistic concert we have had from the chorus.

The singing itself was also on a much higher level than last season. There was less boisterous tone, and in songs like the chanty "Rio Grande" a variety of nuance that was new with the chorus. The very first song was so stirring in its rhythm, so accurate in its attacks, so clean-cut in its diction, that it portended well for the evening. For quieter effects, the Brahms' "Lullaby" and Elgar's "Seek Him" were outstanding.

Madame Ada Malaspina Tchirkow, soprano, was the assisting soloist. This singer has appeared frequently, being a member of Pittsburgh's music colony. Her training is in the Italian style, but her repertory extends into the music of all nations. A Russian lullaby and Weckerlin's most popular Bergerette were especially well received.

Other soloists drawn from the chorus did effective bits. Fred Lotz played accompaniments.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Wife Shot, Husband Is Held for Court

Saul H. Lehman, 725 Montclair street, who, on October 18, is alleged to have shot his wife, Della, in the chin, was held for court on a charge of felonious shooting, at a Morals Court hearing yesterday. Lehman maintained the shooting was accidental. Mrs. Lehman testified her husband, following the shooting, begged her to say it was an accident.

DOCTOR GAVE HER MIXTURE TO STOP COUGHING SPELLS

Coughed So Bad People Stared—Began to Worry Family.

HAWKED AND SPIT UP PHLEGM EACH MORNING

"A person with a bad cough is a fool not to see their doctor right away," declares Mrs. D. R. Shadwell. "I coughed in church, in the office where I work and at the movies so bad people would stare at me. Mornings I was a nuisance around the house, coughing up phlegm and mucus. At night I breathed through my mouth and mornings my mouth was dry and tasted awful.

SAW HER DOCTOR

"Our old doctor met me on the street and noticed I coughed every minute or so. I told him 25c cough remedies did no good and I couldn't take cold liver oil. He laughed and wrote down the name 'Linonine' and told me it was a nice-tasting Flaxseed mixture with Eucalyptus, etc., far better than Cod Liver Oil and quicker, too.

WONDERFUL RESULTS

"Only the bigger downtown stores had Linonine but it's worth going miles to get. My cough loosened up and vanished almost like magic. Since then a dozen friends who were wheezing and coughing around have taken Linonine and even the kids in the neighborhood like to take it when they get a cough or cold. It builds you up, too."

A cough is a nasty, annoying thing to have and dangerous, too, this time of year. A 50c or $1.00 bottle at home does the work. Well stocked druggists have Linonine, made by the nationally known Kerr Chemical Co.

GLOWING HEALTH

Don't say "Nothing can help me." For over 10 years LIFO has restored to buoyant health and activity many thousands who suffered just as you do. It is marvelous to see how LIFO corrects the most obstinate digestive troubles—relieves gas, pains in the stomach and bowels, torpid liver, dizziness and constipation. How it restores appetite, vigor, sound sleep and strong nerves.

LIFO Herb Medicine

LIFO is unsurpassed for dull aching pains in the back and that tired sleepy feeling. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicine for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. For Pittsburghers By Pittsburghers

THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH is a Pittsburgh newspaper, published for Pittsburghers by Pittsburgh people. ¶ We who write its news columns, who are members of its advertising staff, who see it through its many and complicated mechanical developments, who feed and care for the giant presses that print 360,000 eight-page newspapers an hour—we are Pittsburghers—proud of our newspaper—proud of the part we are playing to make it the kind of a newspaper Pittsburghers want to read.

Our Publisher is a Pittsburgher. His rise from cub reporter to his present position has been realized, almost in its entirety, on Pittsburgh newspapers alone. He knows what Pittsburgh people demand in the newspaper they read. Under his guidance, the Sun-Telegraph meets their requirements.

Our managing editor is a Pittsburgher. Twenty-three years of newspaper service in this city places him in an enviable position to do his job well. He, too, knows Pittsburgh and Pittsburgh knows him.

In the circulation department we find men whose years of service with this newspaper range from four to twenty-five years. Of approximately one hundred men who comprise this branch of the Sun-Telegraph family, nine have been employed over twenty years and thirty-four over ten years.

In the engraving department, composed of fourteen men, all but three were born in Pittsburgh, and two of those who were not, have made our city their home for many years. And every man in this department has a long record of service to his credit.

Seventeen printers in our composing room have each served their newspaper for more than twenty-eight years. One of them is eighty-one years old, a Civil War veteran and a native of Pittsburgh. Two others have passed the seventy mark. The composing room, like every other department, is "Pittsburgh" through and through.

Sixty-seven men are required to operate our giant presses. Every one of them is a Pittsburgher, born in this city or its environs. Nineteen of them have been in the employ of the Sun-Telegraph or its predecessors for over twenty years and thirteen for more than ten years.

In the stereotyping department, every man has a service record of five or more years and all but two are native sons.

Pittsburghers, who gather the news of the day and write it in an accurate and interesting manner, such as is only possible through a thorough knowledge of their city and those who live in it, make up the Sun-Telegraph news and editorial staff. Contrary to the conditions that exist on most metropolitan newspapers, the members of the news and editorial staff are Pittsburghers by a great majority. Our city editor has twenty-seven years of service to his credit and many others in this department: reporters, rewrite men, sports writers, have served the newspaper readers of Pittsburgh for nearly as many or more years than he.

The advertising department, too, is composed of Pittsburgh men. Seven members of the staff have been identified with our organization for more than twenty years. Practically every member of the staff is "native born." Knowing Pittsburgh and knowing advertising, the SUN-TELEGRAPH advertising staff is well equipped to best serve those who profit through the columns of our newspaper.

We who are members of the SUN-TELEGRAPH family, seven hundred and thirty in number, are Pittsburghers. We are substantial citizens, proud of our city and proud of the part our newspaper is playing in making it a better city. Of one hundred and sixty of us who were interviewed, ninety-two own our own homes or are buying them.

Most of us have families. Our pay checks support 3,020 people. We are prosperous, modern, well-living citizens.

Being Pittsburghers, we should know what you other Pittsburghers want to read. We should know what you expect and require from the newspaper that goes into your homes. And we are positive in our belief that the PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, our newspaper and your newspaper, meets your requirements and is winning your constantly increasing approval.

Hockey Talent Sought
Pirates Get Swetonic
Local Gridders Picked

Choynski Picks Flaws
Buc Deal Is Pending
Cuyler to Lead Off

LEONARD OFFERS BONUS TO SCOUTS

EVER since Benny Leonard and his associates took over the Pittsburgh hockey club they have been trying to buy new material with which to strengthen the team, but thus far they have been unsuccessful, barring the acquisition of Joe Miller, Mickey MacKay and Toots Holway. They have found that most of the desirable young players in the minor leagues are merely "covered up" and are the property of various big league clubs. Each club in the major organization is permitted to have 15 men under contract, though allowed to have only 13 in uniform.

Benny Leonard

Leonard says he has not given up hope, however. He has scouts out in Canada and also in American minor league cities, searching for new timber, and is confident that they will eventually land some worth-while stuff for next season if not for the present campaign.

GLOWING reports have been received about one young player on a minor club, and the Pirate bosses are endeavoring to get an option that will give them first call on his services. Fortunately, this promising puckman is not tied up with any other club in the majors, so there is an encouraging prospect that Pittsburgh will land him sooner or later.

The player in question has shown so much promise that one prominent club in the Canadian section of the National League offered to give two men in exchange for him, but the proposition was turned down by his present employers, and from present indications the Buc management has the inside track. Meanwhile Leonard is continuing the hunt for new icers in other directions, and to spur on his scouts he has offered the latter a bonus for each player who is signed and makes good.

THE extent of a baseball player's travels during the course of a long career may be judged from a statement made by Eddie Collins, the former star second baseman who is now one of Connie Mack's assistants in the handling of the Athletics. The veteran says he has played in every state of the Union except two.

Addressing 200 youngsters at the Boardman Boys' Guild in Philadelphia, Collins said: "One way to develop your body is to take an active interest in sports. Get out on the old backlot and play football, basketball and baseball. Baseball is a game that you must start playing when you are young if you are to be a success and make the grade in the big time. Become a good baseball player, and you will see all the world that you want. In my years in professional baseball I have played in 46 states."

Steve Swetonic

THERE is no longer any doubt that when Pitcher Steve Swetonic gets his well-earned promotion to the major baseball ranks next year he will, as has been rumored several times since the close of the 1928 season, remain right here in his own home town. The North Side boy is headed for the Pirates and will be found with the Bucs on their training trip next spring. Swetonic's great pitching for Indianapolis in the American Association this year attracted wide attention, and since the minor league convention opened in Toronto on Wednesday reports have been revived that several major league clubs are trying to purchase his release. However, there is reason to believe that the Pittsburgh club has outbid all competitors for the services of the clever young hurler, and though the deal has not yet been closed it is practically certain that Swetonic will come to the Corsairs for 1929. It is understood that the consideration will involve cash and two players.

HARRY STUHLDREHER, Villanova football coach, who was the leader of Notre Dame's Immortal Four Horsemen and All-America quarterback in 1924, the final team selected by the late Walter Camp, pays tribute to the quality of football played in this city by picking two players from Pitt and one from Carnegie Tech on his own All-America first eleven for 1928. The local gridders chosen by him are Howard Harpster, of Carnegie, at quarterback; Mike Getto, of Pitt, whom he shifts from tackle to guard, and Joe Donchess, of Pitt, at end.

Stuhldreher picks two teams, as follows: First team—Ends, Fesler, Ohio State, and Donchess, Pitt; tackles, Lassman, New York University, and Mooney, Georgetown; guards, Getto, Pitt, and Thompson, Lafayette; center, Reineke, Stanford; quarterback, Harpster, Carnegie Tech; halfbacks, Strong, New York University, and Cagle, Army; fullback, Scull, Pennsylvania. Second team—Ends, Messenger, Army, and Rosenzweig, Carnegie; tackles, Miller, Notre Dame, and Smith, Pennsylvania; guards, Robeski, Stanford, and Barrett, Harvard; center, Moynihan, Notre Dame; quarterback, Maple, Oregon Aggies; halfbacks, Mizell, Georgia Tech, and Weston, Boston College; fullback, Carroll, Washington University.

WHILE many college football stars are also found on varsity basketball teams, it is unusual for one to wait until his final year in school before trying to win a place on the floor outfit. But that's what Paul Scull, retiring captain and crack fullback of Penn's eleven, decided to do.

Though Scull played basketball in high school, he never took up the game at Penn, but now he has reported for practice and hopes to make the varsity five in his senior year. Incidentally, the Dan and Murray Elgart trophy, given annually to the most valuable player on the Penn football team, has been awarded to Scull.

Joe Choynski

JOE CHOYNSKI, old-time ring battler now located in Chicago, is just as severe in his criticism of present-day fighters as he was in the years during which he was a familiar figure in the boxing game in Pittsburgh. "Fighters are a lot of hams," Joe told Larry Selz. "The trouble with the fighters of today is that they don't know anything, and that's the reason for these frequent upsets. They're just a lot of muscular palookas. If a fighter wins a title today, it's a fluke, likely as not. In the old times a guy that won a championship won it because he knew more about fighting than anyone else of his weight. And he could hold onto the title for a long time, no matter how often he fought.

"TODAY a fellow comes along, has a few lucky breaks, knocks over a string of hams and finds himself champ. Then he's afraid to fight, because the chances are the first or second guy he stacks up against will punch him cuckoo and take the title away from him. You see, neither fighter knows much about boxing as an art, so it's a toss-up which one is going to win the match.

"Why, there isn't a single fighter in the ring today who knows how to lay a straight downward left to the stomach. I was showing Young Jack Thompson the other day, and, honestly, he was amazed when he found out I could block any poke he shot at me except this one left to the stomach which I showed him. No, sir, they don't

DRURY INJURED; COTTON, COOK IN FIGHT

By CARL W. SHATTO.

A BOXING bout, three offside goals and some spirited hockey entertained a capacity crowd at Duquesne Garden last night as the Pirates battled the champions of the sport, the New York Rangers, to a scoreless deadlock.

The fist fight was put on by Harold Cotton and Bill Cook near the close of the second period, and while it lasted it was a very good bout. The trouble started when Cook accused Cotton of roughing him up when the former made a drive on the Pirate goal. The contestants exchanged several overheated words as they skated the length of the ice shoulder to shoulder, after which they dropped their sticks and used their fists to drive home their points. The officials and other players rushed to the battle scene and separated the wild-swinging athletes before either was able to score a knockdown. The judges ruled it a good draw and the officials awarded each a prize of five minutes in the penalty box.

GOALS RULED OFFSIDE

Of the three offside goals, two were scored by the Pirates. Darragh brought the fans to their feet with a great shot from the boards after seven minutes of play in the second period. The flashing of the goal judge's red light occasioned much cheering, but the referee only frowned as he threw cold water on the fans' enthusiasm with an offside ruling.

Thompson, spare forward of the Rangers, was next to have a goal thrown out by the officials, and Herb Drury was their final victim. Herb tallied after 14 minutes of play in the third period when he took a pass from Tex White at the blue line, beat the New York defense and slammed the puck past Roach for what appeared to be the winning counter. Officials ruled, however, that White had skated ahead of Drury after feeding him the disc, and the goal was not allowed. The painful decision on this beautiful play appeared to be questionable, but the officials turned a deaf ear to all Pirate protests.

DRURY INJURED

Drury put on his brilliant exhibition after suffering a painful injury. In a mixup with Keeling, about the middle of the second period, Herb and the Ranger spare crashed to the ice. The Pirate veteran was knocked out for a few seconds, and when he regained his feet blood was spouting from a deep gash in his chin. He was rushed to the dressing room for medical attention, but returned to the fight in the third stanza after his wound had been cleansed and bandaged.

Last night's game was the third out-of-town battle in which the Bucs have engaged in four home appearances, and two of these marathons have been scoreless.

Myles Lane, former Dartmouth gridiron great, proved a capable pinch-hitter for the injured Ching Johnson in the Ranger defense, and with Leo Bourgeault and Taffy Abel lending assistance, he succeeded in turning aside all of the Pirate thrusts which met with the approval of the hawk-eyed officials. Inexperience handicapped Lane greatly when he attempted to attack, but when back in front of his own net he proved that he had not forgotten how to "hold that line."

HOLWAY "IRON MAN"

Toots Holway, Pirate defense giant, put on the "iron man" act and played through the grueling 70 minutes without a second's relief. Holway's feat was noteworthy, in that he repeatedly participated in the Pirates' attack.

Although the play was fast and spirited throughout, a big percentage of the drives were broken up in center ice. The Ranger forwards concentrated on keeping the locals away from the "filling in" defense men, and the poke and back checking of the Pirate front lines was extraordinary. Goalies Joe Miller and Mickey Roach had a comparatively light night, for it was seldom that either was called upon to make really difficult stops. Each turned in spectacular saves, to smother shots that appeared to be "labeled," but these were comparatively few.

The front line of neither club was able to break through the defense in the first 10 minutes of the opening period, but the finish of the stanza was a fury of action. Darragh, on a pass from Cotton, and Keeling, on a rebound, were first to trouble the goalies. When Abel was sent to the penalty box the Pirates attacked continually. Drury beat the defense only to have Roach rob him of a goal, and Cotton later made a strong bid when he picked up a loose puck back of the Ranger cage and whirled it around into Roach's pads.

DARRAGH MAKES BID

Darragh for the Bucs and Boucher for the Champions, made the strongest bids for tallies in the second period, in which they were even all the way. The invaders kept the Bucs on the defensive and the fans in an uproar when Milks was banished for tripping early in the third chapter, but the locals survived the sustained attack.

Although the Pirates were to have presented a revamped front line, Manager Odie Cleghorn changed his mind at the last minute and decided to permit the Buc lines up to go unchanged. After several days of experimentation, Pilot Odie

Buckeyes to Pick Athletic Head Monday

COLUMBUS, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—After deliberating several hours, the athletic board of Ohio State University adjourned its meeting last night without selecting a successor to Dr. John W. Wilce, director of football, who has resigned.

The board discussed several candidates for the position, it was announced, and set next Monday afternoon as the time for taking up the matter further.

PATSY YOUNG IN COMEBACK ATTEMPT

Patsy Young, former local featherweight boxer, who has been on the sidelines several seasons, is going to attempt a comeback. He has been training for several weeks and will take the first step along the return trail at New Castle next Monday night, when he will oppose Mickey Dugan, of Cleveland, in one of the six-round preliminaries to the 10-round battle between Tony Ross, formerly of Carnegie and now of Sharon, and Johnny Plati, of Greenville.

Joe Louder, local featherweight, will box Joe Rollo, of Erie, in the six-round semi-final. Warren Farrow meets Nick Pois and Tom O'Leary will oppose Johnny Haggerty, of Lawrenceville, in the four-round bouts.

Dave Shade meets Eddie Flynn in the windup of a show of four 10-round bouts in Boston tonight. Johnny Jadick clashes with Bruce Flowers, Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, meets Franklin Clifton, and Tony Mandell boxes Benny (Kid) Carter.

Two A. M. A. champions, Andy Andricci and Cowboy Deluca, will appear in bouts under the auspices of the Twenty-first Ward Republican Club in St. Andrews Tuesday this evening.

Davy Adelman and Howard Mayberry have been matched for the 10-round main bout on the program to be staged soon in Mckeesport. It is to be held next Thursday night. They are bantams who have become prime favorites with the Tube City fans.

Motor Square Garden's next show will not be held until Christmas afternoon, when Andy Martin, of Boston, who recently defeated Johnny Dutto in the same ring, will meet the best obtainable opponent.

Langdon, Retired Boxing Vet, Succumbs

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Tommy Langdon, once a well-known featherweight boxer, died suddenly yesterday in his cigar store. He retired from the ring 10 years ago.

Langdon's real name was Hiram Kauffman. He had fought most of the great featherweights of his time, including Jem Driscoll, of England.

GIANTS MAY GET LUQUE

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The vexing matter of the draft or selection of baseball players by the majors from the minor leagues will not be decided at the 1928 convention of the National Association.

The question, which has long plagued the powers of baseball, finally reached the floor of the convention late yesterday, and with comparatively little discussion, was postponed to an indefinite date.

A committee from the "AA" and "A" leagues will try to arrange a meeting with a committee from the majors at West Baden, Ind., early in January to seek a compromise by which the leagues, now operating under only a restricted draft, may be brought under the full force of unlimited selection.

If an agreement is reached at the Indiana resort, it can be submitted to the National Association of Baseball Clubs at a special convention or handled by a mail vote of the leagues. Any broadening of the scope of the draft will be agreeable to the Class "B," "C" and "D" leagues and a majority of the "A" classes.

The Pacific Coast, International and American Association, the three "AA" or "big minors" and the Western, Class "A" now have a draft rule limiting selection of players by the majors to those athletes who have been sent to these clubs by the American and National Leagues.

TO HOLD CONFERENCE

In connection with the passage of a resolution calling for the West Baden conference and holding the draft matter in abeyance until then, the small leagues, through their spokesman, W. G. Branham, president of the South Atlantic, Piedmont and Eastern Carolina, went on record as favoring the amendments to the major-minor league agreements, which were up for action.

The "AA" leagues could not be brought to approve the amendments, and the whole draft issue went over on a motion by John Conway Toole, president of the International League and outspoken foe of the draft, for the appointment of committee to go into a further conference.

If there are changes to be made in the operation of the draft they will have to be approved by mail or at a special convention as the next convention will not be held until the first Wednesday in December, 1929, at Chattanooga, Tenn., selected yesterday as the next convention city.

Other amendments submitted by the major-minor advisory council, dealing with baseball affairs other than the draft, will be taken up at a meeting today. Most of these proposed changes deal with technical administration.

FIX TERRITORIAL RIGHTS

At yesterday's session, the convention ruled the existing territorial rights of 10 miles from cities in leagues in the National Association should be maintained regardless of intervening state lines. The subject came up in connection with a suggestion that the Western League might place a club at Kansas City, Kan., if the law permitted. This would be a violation of the rights of Kansas City, Mo., a member of the American Association, unless a

HERE'S AN "ALL" TEAM THAT CLICKS

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

PICKING all-America teams is all the rage these days. Presuming that we know all about all of the players everywhere, including particularly those we have not seen, which is the extent of the territory all pickers must take in, here goes for ours:

All along we have been laboring under the impression that Pop Warner was coaching the Stanford eleven, but if seems we were wrong again. It must be the California C. of C., judging from his talk since that victory over Army. Asked what made his players so big and strong and good, he came up with that old California gag: "The climate, my boy, the climate."

THERE is a great rush among the colleges to schedule Wyom-

UMPIRE KLEM RESIGNS

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—W. J. Klem, veteran National League umpire, today telegraphed the Post Dispatch from Miami Beach, Fla., that he had resigned.

"It's true I have resigned," the program read, "and feel that I have served the game long and faithfully."

HEYDLER SKEPTICAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—John A. Heydler, president of the National League, on being informed today of the report from St. Louis that Bill Klem had resigned as umpire's job, declared no official notice of resignation had been received. He expressed doubt that Klem would terminate his long connection with the National League without first taking up the matter with its president.

GETTO JOINS KERR'S EAST ELEVEN

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 7.—Mike Getto, University of Pittsburgh's brilliant tackle, yesterday accepted an invitation to join the East team which will play the West team in a Shriners' Hospital benefit at San Francisco on December 29. Head Coach Andy Kerr, of W. & J., who is assembling the football luminaries from the eastern area, has announced. Getto, who is the ninth college star to send Kerr his acceptance, was an outstanding player in all of Pitt's games the past season and is rated as one of the best in the East. He is the second Pitt player to attach himself to the Kerr-Hanley combination, Capt. Andy Fox, of the Panthers, having previously been enlisted. Of the 30 players who had enrolled with the East squad tonight, six are from Pennsylvania College, the others being Aschman, W. & J.; Harpster, of Carnegie Tech; and Tolbert and Thompson, of Lafayette.

Kerr said that Capt. Lassman, of New York University, would have been enlisted in the invitational group had not the injury to his knee received in the game made it impossible for him to accept. Kerr said, however, that Lassman would have been included had he been able to play. Strong, who has also been invited, has not yet signified whether he will accept, but is expected to do so by tomorrow.

The squad of players assembled to date by Kerr is still to be selected from:

Strong's Scoring Record Best In Country

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The throwing accuracy record of Ken Strong, the football point maker of the country this season, shows that in a total of 24 touchdowns and 24 points after touchdown attempts, he kicked goals for a total of 21 and a total of 87 points, a record which is his college career and 100 per cent plus.

Counting Strong came up from nowhere in the Eastern list with points per game to lead not only this section, but the nation as well in the 1928 total of 141 points in his first varsity year, he was with the last with 66. His records:

Eastern				Total
Year	TDs	PAT	FG	Pts.
1924 First	12	29	0	101
1927 Fifteenth	8	18	1	67
1926 Sixth	8	15	4	63

REDS GET SWANSON

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Evar Swanson, fast outfielder of the San Francisco Missions, has been sold to Cincinnati of the National League. Wade (Red) Killefer, president of the Pacific Coast League Club, telegraphed from Toronto he will receive two pitchers and a catcher in the deal.

M'CHESNEYTOWN PLAYS W. VIEW TOMORROW

By TOM BIRKS.

THE West View Club will meet McChesneytown in the deciding game of the Western Pennsylvania independent gridiron championship at the Latrobe High School field tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

That was finally decided in the sports department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph last evening when Manager Muzzio, of West View, met the representatives of the McChesneytown club and with the greatest offer ever given to an independent football club as a guarantee signed the dotted line to play on the famous North side Latrobe gridiron.

The match will be strictly a post-season game, and there is no reason for loading or padding will be permitted.

OFFICIALS NAMED

The officials selected to handle it are Fred Steffey, Earl Cavanaugh, umpire, and Joe (Red) Gunning, referee. If there is no objection by the captains of the two teams the game will not suffer by the selection.

Never in the history of sandlot football has so much talk been heard as between the two contestants for championship honors. Naturally each club has a wonderful following and the game was eagerly awaited.

West View will hold a practice session this evening, and the team will take the 11:45 o'clock train from Union Depot over the Pennsylvania tomorrow morning.

Latrobe fans eagerly await the game. Since the opening game of the season the Kennedy machine has played most of its important contests on the road. Naturally when Manager Kennedy ejected negotiations to bring the West View club to the high school grounds, excitement reached a fever heat, and officials of the club are looking for a crowd of 5000.

The records of the club will stand the test. West View's great victory over the McKeesport Olympics put the strength of the team to the test, but the manner in which it came through the ordeal with flying colors proved that it is a championship club.

Manager Muzzio has announced a lineup that will be strictly followed by the team, and there is no reason for loading or padding will be permitted.

MAROONS IN LEAD

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The Montreal Maroons regained the lead in the International group of the National Hockey League last night by trouncing the New York Americans by 4 to 1.

Except in the final period when they flashed a spasmodically dangerous attack that brought one goal, the Americans never were in the running. Montreal played a fine game that gave them a two-goal lead in the first five minutes and from then on the result never was in doubt.

Roy Worters, much-discussed goal tender, was in the Americans' net regular for the first time and gave a good account of himself in spit of four shots that got past him.

SENATORS BEAT HAWKS

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Held scoreless for three periods by Gardiner's great goal-tending, the Ottawa Senators broke through for two scores in the overtime period and defeated the Chicago Blackhawks, 2 to 0, in a slow National League hockey game here last night.

ing and Lake Forest for next fall, these being the only teams to bow to Chicago in 10 games this year. Lake Forest ought to give anybody a good workout, for it lost by only a 7 to 0 but Wyoming did a nice dive by a count of 47-0, in a successful nosetop attempt to beat the Gene Tunney long count record for which Chicago is famous. Unfortunately, the pond defenders of America's happy hunting grounds, sometimes referred to as the Shooting Gallery Cowboys, were not in very good form the day of the game. They shot at Wyoming, but missed.

Pittsburgh's oldest inhabitant can remember 'way back when the last two boxing shows were held in this city.

BEFORE the season opened, Benny Leonard, new owner of the hockey Pirates, was broadcasting the tip that the renson Roy Worters was holding out for an impossible salary was that he was being influenced by one of the New York clubs. Even President Calder of the National Professional Hockey League, has found it out now and that's what all the squawking about over Roy's transfer to the New York Americans. There's nothing like locking the stable after the horse is gone.

Pete Zivic used his noodle in his bout with Al Singer in New York, the other night, which was stopped in the sixth round after Pete had gone down a number of times under the onslaught of the latest featherweight star, who now will be the next one to get a shot at the wreck of old Johnny Dundee. After one of his knockdowns, Pete took a count and then got up and raised a fuss with the referee, demanding that he rub some substance that did not exist on Singer's gloves. During the ensuing delay, he gained himself a nice little breathing spell. Pete has had plenty of experience and he makes use of it in the tight places.

ISN'T it like the baseball magnates to fill the papers with stuff about the draft just when the weather gets nice and cold? And have you noticed that they went to Toronto, where the draught is good to take that cold draft chatter out of the mothballs for another airing?

Billy Gibson still finds Cleveland his hard luck spot. A couple of years ago, he bought the contract of Louis (Kid) Kaplan, the resigned featherweight champion, and started him off as a lightweight against Billy Wallace, then little known, in a Christmas fund show in Cleveland, and Billy knocked the Kid back into his lap for a perfect goal. It was the beginning of the end for Kaplan. A few nights ago, Gibson took his Knute Hansen to the same town to box the windup of another Christmas benefit. This also was Knute's first start under Billy's wing, and we all know from the books and papers we have read that K. O. Christner knocked the doleful Dane kicking in eight heats. The next time Gibson goes playing Santa Claus, it is a good bet Cleveland will be off his itinerary.

NEBRASKA'S big problem appears to lie in the fact that it can't dig up a football coach who can lick those big Cornhuskers and get a grip on things. Jess Willard in his palmy days would have been a fit candidate for the job that burned up the well-known Ice Bears and knocked him cold. They tell a story about Bezeg's futile position during Nebraska's game with Army at West Point this year. It is said he twice sent in a substitute only to have the captain wave the sub out. Finally he crossed the sub over the field a third time and the latter, appealing to the referee, exclaimed: "If that guy don't let me play this time, the coach is going to be as sore as you know what."

Pirates Fail in Effort to Get Oatman

The Pirates have failed in their efforts to obtain Russell Oatman, rugged left wing, from the Montreal Maroons, Manager Odie Cleghorn announced today. Cleghorn received a message from Montreal officials last night to the effect that the Maroons could not dispense with Oatman's services.

Previously the Maroons had promised the Pirates Oatman in the event that Dave Trottier, Olympic games ice hero, measured up to National League standards. It is assumed that Trottier failed to make the grade.

BIG TEN SPORT CARDS TO BE SET TODAY

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Big Ten Coaches and athletic directors will tackle problems of policy and complete schedules for 1929 in all branches of sport when they convene for their annual conferences here today and tomorrow.

While football coaches already had completed most of next season's schedules, they were expected to have lively sessions over the ever pertinent questions of eligibility of players and proselyting. Baseball, basketball, track and other minor sports will be scheduled.

The cases of Mayes McLain, Iowa's fullback, and Allan Holman, of Ohio State, were expected to create a discord and probably a new ruling on transfer by the athletic directors and coaches. Protests have been made to Commissioner John L. Griffith that the two, who had played football at other schools—McLain at Haskell and Holman at Iowa State—were guilty of violating the Big Ten transfer rule and should be excluded from further athletic competition in the conference.

Mal. Griffith said that while proselyting was quite definitely on the wane, it would be given considerable attention and that athletic directors would adopt a definite rule against.

Big Ten colleges will be asked to adopt professional hockey rules during the conference. William G. Bratton, Chicago amateur hockey official, will present the request.

Bratton said a difference in the rules as played in Big Ten and professional games was of no value. The Big Ten rules, he said, worked a hardship on college players who desired to turn professional after their graduation, as they had to learn the game all over again. Meetings of coaches in all sports will start this morning.

know how to fight. Their training is ridiculous, designed to make them stronger instead of smarter."

REPORTS from Toronto that the Pittsburgh club has sold Infielder Eddie Mulligan to the Mission club of the Pacific Coast League are slightly garbled. The Pirate bosses sold Mulligan to Dallas in the Texas League as far back as September 15, and it was the Dallas club that sold him to the Missions this week.

But there is one other deal brewing in Toronto in which the Pittsburgh club may actually be a participant. If it is not put through before Manager Doyle Bush and Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss leave the Canadian city tonight it may be closed next week when the major leaguers gather. It is a separate dicker from the proposed Glenn Wright trade and will mean the exchange of one or two Pirates for a player now on the roster of another major league club.

Hazen Cuyler

JUST where Hazen Cuyler ought to be placed in the batting order of his club is a question that has caused considerable discussion here and in Chicago during the last two seasons, but Manager Joe McCarthy, of the Cubs, now comes to the front with a brand new idea. He has changed his mind about his hitting array and plans to try Cuyler as lead-off man. "I'm worrying about who's going to hit in second place," McCarthy is quoted. "I've been studying over that batting order ever since the Hornsby trade was made. You see I want good runners ahead of my heavy hitters as well as fellows who can get on. I've just about concluded to make Cuyler the lead-off man next spring, and let English hit second, following with Hornsby, Wilson and Stephenson. It all depends on how things stack up in training camp. If Blair, the Little Rock recruit, who hits left-handed, makes good at third base, I may lead off with English, and follow with Blair, Cuyler, Hornsby, Wilson and Stephenson."

TECH 1929 GRID CARD EAGERLY AWAITED

By JESS CARVER.

BUDDY OVEREND, the placid graduate manager of athletics at Carnegie Tech, expects to make known his 1929 football card by Sunday. Pittsburghers are awaiting with special interest the publication of this schedule, inasmuch as the Tartans are to share the Stadium with Pitt next fall. Under such an arrangement, there will be eight consecutive major contests played in the Oakland bowl, beginning with the Pitt-West Virginia Big Four tussle, October 12.

Manager Overend has closed for six of his nine games so far. Tech is to open the season at Wheeling, W. Va., with Bethany on September 28. On the following week, the Tartans will meet Thiel at the Stadium.

The next known contest on the Tech card will be with Wash-Jeff October 19, while Pitt is in Nebraska, and on the following week, according to present information, Notre Dame will be here. On November 16, Pitt and Tech will put on their annual battle and Thanksgiving Day, the Tartans will be in New York for a game with Chick Meehan's Violets.

DATES KEPT SECRET

So close has the Skibo counsel been kept that the Tartan opponents for October 12, November 2 and November 9 have not even been hinted at. It may develop that with the Notre Dame game shifted back to October 26 from the first planned date of November 23 that the Skibos will take that day off, though if they do, it will mean that Pittsburgh will be without a football game for November 23, unless the Dukes play at home that afternoon.

Georgia Tech, Wisconsin and Colgate have been mentioned as possible Tech foemen for next fall, but according to authoritative information, negotiations with all three schools have been dropped. It looks very much as though Brother Overend will be handing us a surprise when he gives out his '29 card.

Two new coaching faces will be seen in the Tri-State Conference during the coming basketball campaign. At Geneva, Ken Loeffler, former Penn State ace, has supplanted Col. Bo McMillin, and at Waynesburg, Frank Wolf and George Miller will direct the Jackets in the stead of Katrinka Easterday.

Of the two institutions, Geneva seems headed for the greatest success. Loeffler will have a fine squad with which to work. Ken was one of the best court players in Penn State's history, and in divers ways since leaving school, has shown his ability as a teacher. He has a fine personality—which goes a long way in this coaching racket.

The Conference campaign gives indication of developing into a three-cornered race between Westminster, the defending champions, Duquesne and Geneva, Westminster, losing but one man of the fine quintet that carried the school to the heights a year ago, has a fine chance to make it two in a row. The Dukes, also fortunate in having a veteran nucleus, and under the guidance of the canny Chick Davies, are even choices to regain the honor they lost to the Titans in 1926. And Geneva, with good material, looms as the dark horse of the league.

Bethany was counted a fairly strong contender prior to last Monday. But on that day, at the annual Conference meeting, two of Furman Nuss' stars were declared ineligible for further competition. The loss of Tilson and Hamil was a severe blow to Bison chances.

Mike Loeb is certain to have a scrappy team at Thiel—and will be just as dangerous as ever. The Lutherans gave 'em all trouble last year, and beat back Duquesne, Bethany and Geneva in single games.

Reaching out for bigger and better things, Athletic Director Miller, of Waynesburg College, has organized wrestling as a major sport and will sponsor a "wrassling" team at the school this fall. Meets have already been arranged with Marshall College, Franklin and Marshall and West Virginia.

Aside from the Jackets, West Virginia is the only institution in the district that sponsors the mat sport. Eastern institutions go for this racket hot and heavy. Wrestling and boxing are both winter season sports that should be encouraged—and Waynesburg deserves a big hand for taking the initiative in the Conference.

Y. M. C. A.'s and community houses in the Pittsburgh district supporting mat squads and wishing to book the Jackets can do so by writing Director Miller at Waynesburg.

Westminster College put on the feed box last night. Among the tunes recognized by the untrained ear during the soup course were "Yes, We Have No Bananas," "Sonny Boy," "The Geneva Alma Mater" and the Saturday night song—"Muddy Water."

The occasion was the annual testimonial banquet to the Titan footballers. The Westminster eleven tied with the Dukes of Duquesne for the Conference title this fall and were roundly praised by a whole flock of interesting speakers.

Roy Neville, chairman of the athletic council, announced that Dyke Beede and John Lawther, respectively head and assistant grid coach, had been signed for two more years. This brought down what was left of the house after Capt. Joe Furno's speech and presentation to Beede and Lawther gifts from the squad. The boys gave Dyke a traveling case and Johnny a pocket flash—pardon, I mean lighter.

ROY WORTERS REINSTATED

MONTREAL, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Roy Worters, former star goal keeper for the Pittsburgh Pirates, who has been under suspension, was reinstated yesterday by President Frank Calder, of the National Hockey League, and was in the nets for the New York Americans against the Montreal Maroons here last night.

In thus putting an end to the controversy over Worters which arose when he was suspended by President Calder for being a holdout and then was sold to the Americans while still under the ban, President Calder issued a statement which said:

"The principle that players under suspension may not be transferred from one club to another having been sustained by the board of governors of the National Hockey League, no further good purpose can be served by barring Player Worters from the game.

"Having now signed his contract, his suspension is lifted and the way paved for the transfer of his services from Pittsburgh to the New York Americans. Such transfer now being ratified, the player is eligible for the latter club."

stipulation could be passed that the 10-mile limit should no prevail when a state line was passed.

Chattanooga's invitation to hold the 1929 convention in Tennessee was accepted by a vote of 15 to 8, in a contest with West Baden, Ind. To have accepted the Indiana invitation, it would have been necessary to amend the National Association agreement, providing that the convention must be held in a city represented in minor league baseball.

The baseball men were guests of the Toronto baseball club at dinner with Sam McBride, mayor of Toronto, acting as toastmaster, and Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis delivering the principal address.

In another trade, Montreal agreed to give Infielder Joe Faber to Omaha for Snake Henry, first baseman.

The St. Louis Browns sold Guy Sturdy to the Birmingham club of the Southern Association, and the Chicago Cubs bought Pitcher Edward Lautenbach from Reading.

MANY TRADES RUMORED

Thirteen of the 16 major league managers and scores of managers of minor league clubs continued to talk of player trades, but generally did little business. Rumors about the lobby of the convention hotel of the National Association insisted that several major league clubs had arranged for a transfer of players by purchase or trades, but no confirmation could be found.

One report heard on every side was that Pitchers Adolph Luque or Pete Donohue, or possibly both, would be sent by the Cincinnati Reds to the New York Giants. The Giants to go to the Reeds were not named.

Another report concerned the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox. This arrangement about which the management of the two American League clubs said they had not been consulted, was for Buddy Myer, Boston third baseman, to move to New York, with one or more Yankees going to Boston.

The Yankees also were reported to be negotiating for two minor league clubs, Syracuse in the New York-Pennsylvania League and Chambersburg in the Blue Ridge.

SONGER TO FORT WORTH

Rochester sold Dick Urban, infielder, to Fort Worth, Tex.

Gabby Street, former battery-mate of Walter Johnson, and later a minor league manager, signed with St. Louis Cardinals and will be assigned a managerial post somewhere in the Cardinal chain.

Jimmy Hamilton, former manager of the Nashville, Tenn., club, sold his stock in the Nashville club, and was reported negotiating with Atlanta for a possible business connection with that club.

Clarence Rowland, former White Sox manager and American League umpire, was tendered a position as manager of the Nashville club and took the offer under advisement.

Another Nashville transaction was the purchase of Joe Klugman, infielder, from Memphis.

Baseball history will be made in Boston the Sunday before the major league season opens when the Red Sox and Braves play an exhibition game. The two Boston clubs have not met in many years. The engagement is made possible by recent legislation in favor of Sunday baseball in Massachusetts. Another game will be played Saturday.

Denny Williams, Boston Red Sox outfielder, has been sold to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

Hank Gowdy, hero of the 1914 world series when the Boston Braves defeated the Athletics in four straight games, a novelty in those days, will return to his old love as coach. Gowdy was with Rochester last season.

Joseph Cascarella, a pitcher, has been sold by the Pittsfield club of the Eastern League to Portland of the Pacific Coast. The price paid was said to have been considerably more than a major league club would have had to pay to draft him.

McLarnin, Pilot May Break Soon

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Pop Foster and the unfortunate Jimmy McLarnin are due here today. McLarnin is coming for repairs. He is suffering from rupture of a small blood vessel near one of his eyes. He sustained the injury early in his battle with Ray Miller in Detroit last week. Miller took full advantage of McLarnin's distress and hammered little Baby Face so badly that he could not respond to the bell in the eighth round.

McLarnin soon will be of age. It is reported on good authority that he then will break with Foster.

CUBS-TIGERS SERIES SET

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Telegrams to the Los Angeles Pacific Coast League club from its business manager, Oscar Reichow, who is attending the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues at Toronto, Ont., reported yesterday the closing of arrangement for a five-game series of exhibition games between the Chicago Cubs and the Detroit Americans at Wrigley Field here next spring.

CITY HOCKEY LOOP TO BE FORMED

An amateur hockey loop which probably will be known as the City League, is to be formed at an organization meeting to be held Monday evening at Duquesne Garden. C. Bruce Lafferty, a prominent figure in local hockey circles for many years, is doing the organization work, and probably will serve as president of the new circuit.

Lafferty already has four teams in line, and he hopes to enroll two more sextets and make it a six-club league when the organization is completed Monday. Carnegie Tech, Shady Side Academy, the Oakland Y. M. C. A. and the DeMolay Fraternity are the assured members, and Pitt, Duquesne and the Y. M. H. A. are prospective entrants.

All games are to be played at Duquesne Garden. The new league is to open its season about January 1.

LASSMAN STILL IN HOSPITAL

Al Lassman, giant tackle of the New York University eleven, who was seriously injured in the game with Carnegie Tech at Forbes Field two weeks ago, still is confined to his bed in the Mercy Hospital and probably will not be in condition to permit his removal to New York for at least two or three more weeks, it was said today.

Denial was made that he is suffering from partial paralysis as a result of his injury, and it was said he likely would make a complete recovery. Absolute quiet has been ordered for him, however, and he is denied visitors.

SCRIBES HOLD ELECTION

Ed F. Ballinger, baseball editor of the Post-Gazette, was elected chairman of the local chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America at the annual meeting held yesterday in the Press Club. John L. Hernon was re-elected secretary and Charles J. Doyle, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, was named as the Pittsburgh representative for the two weeks' outing in Canada arranged by the Canadian Pacific Railroad.

P. & O. LEAGUERS OPEN SEASON TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

THE Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League basketball season will be ushered in tonight when the Immaculate Heart passers meet the M. J. Conleys, formerly the Schwartz Valley Club, in Falcon Hall, Brereton avenue.

This contest is the only game scheduled in the reorganized Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League this week, but starting next Monday games will be played every night with the exception of Saturday.

Immaculate Heart and the Conleys have been working hard for the inaugural battle tonight and as each team includes in its lineup wellknown independent stars, followers of the quintets are looking for a close battle from start to finish. The Immaculate Heart management has made preparations to handle a capacity crowd at the opener.

The crack Young Men's Hebrew Association quintet, leader in the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League with two victories in as many starts, is marking time until its home opener tomorrow night when the Mellon National Bank team, champion of the Pittsburgh Bankers' League, is met in a non-league battle at the Young Men's Hebrew Association.

In stacking up against the Mellon passers tomorrow night the Bellefields will face their first hard test of the season, but those who have seen the institutional leaders sweep through with victories over Heinz House and East Liberty Y on the latter clubs' home floors feel certain they will add the Bankers to their list of victims.

Ben Malamude and Mandell seem to have added considerable punch to the Y. M. H. A. attack. Judging by their work against East Liberty Y Wednesday night, these boys are going to bear considerable watching this winter.

ONE GAME TONIGHT

Only one game is scheduled tonight in the Inter-Pittsburgh Institutional League, Coach Francis taking his Heinz House passers to Hill Top Y. As neither team has scored a victory in the league to date both are expected to muster their strongest forces for tonight's contest. Both teams are experimenting with their lineups this winter due to the fact that most of last year's veterans have gone elsewhere to play.

Tomorrow night's battle in the Institutional League brings Coach Fred Yetter's Kingsley House team into action with North Side Community House on the latter's floor.

Two games are scheduled tonight in the Commercial-Industrial League at the South Side Market House, Peoples Savings & Trust meeting Carnegie Steel in the first and National Fireproofing meeting Reliance Life in the second. The members of this league have filed a protest on the eligibility of several of Kaufmann's players and in event the protest is upheld, the league leaders will be displaced. Kaufmann's, composed entirely of Enon Valley players, scored victories in their first two league starts.

RITZ CLUB STARS

The more fans see the Ritz Club, Pittsburgh's leading Negro basketball team in action, the more they are convinced that this quintet is capable of competing with the strongest fives in its class. Forced to go out-of-town for games owing to their inability to get the leading local managers to give them a place on the schedule, the Ritz passers are continuing their excellent work of last year.

Recently they invaded Baltimore, a hotbed of professional basketball, and succeeded in scoring a victory over the Arcadians, one of the best clubs in the state of Maryland.

Manager W. G. Nunn has closed negotiations for the use of Columbus Temple for home games this winter and plans are under way to bring the best clubs in the country here for games. The Ritz stars defeated the best teams in the district last winter and judging by their showing to-date promise to compile a better record this year.

DRIBBLES

Farmers and Union Trust will meet in the only game scheduled in the Bankers' League at Fifth Avenue High School tonight. Diamond National will enjoy a day of rest.

Four members of the P. & O. League will make their bow Monday night. The Monyas quintette to meet the Felders, while the Broadway Club invades the South Side Market House to engage the Mangans.

Octavius (Toby) Uansa, sterling Pitt halfback, has been signed to play with the Penn Five of the West Penn League.

BILL KELLY LOSES

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Jack O'Leary, of Cleveland, 120 pounds, won the decision over Billy Kelly, of Scranton, 120 pounds, in a 10-round bout here last night.

$27-a-Week Worker Flays the Rich: Prosperity a Myth

By B. C. FORBES

TO find out how others see us may not always prove flattering but perhaps it may be wholesome. Most of us, I suppose, strive more allowance for our shortcomings than we make for the shortcomings of others. We are prone to judge ourselves leniently, to put the best possible interpretation on our motives.

Criticism tends to develop our bump of humility. Today's column contains criticism aplenty. Of the writer and of his men.

THE criticism comes from a native-born American, R. N. Burnette, who declares I am a communist or fool, or example. The sentiments he expresses I never understand, are not mine. He writes:

"Your article on the 'millions made by business men' is very interesting, even to a poor working man as I am, but it certainly must make the money lender swell out their chests to burst and point to have proclaimed to the world their great generosity from a philanthropic standpoint. However, I never notice any of you writers digging up the statistics to show how many millions these 'money kings' have stolen from the masses of the world, from their government, and how they made such great thefts and got by with it without receiving censure and punishment, as should have been their lot.

"ARTHUR BRISBANE, certainly hit the 'bull's eye' when he said: 'You cannot convict a million dollarers in the United States of America.' I venture to say that not one of these great philanthropists to whom you refer in your article has ever given as much as $25 to a poor suffering wife and her children, but that most of their benefactions are so placed that no individual poor people will derive any benefit therefrom.

"In 1912 or 1914 I had a little niece, who had some kind of paralysis, so that she could not walk. My brother-in-law worked for a very small salary, but I knew this child would never be able to walk unless she received the best surgical attention the world could afford. Therefore, I wrote ——— explaining the child's condition, and asked him if he would not help my brother financially so he and his good wife could have this child given proper treatment. But the only consolation I received was a little printed card extending sympathy, but not one dollar. She is now a grown young lady, an invalid, studying art the best she can, but she has to sit and wait for help when she wants to be moved.

"BY all that is high and holy, were God in heaven to bless me with abundance of wealth I would not build great monuments. I would not send millions upon millions away to foreign lands to help build cathedrals, medical colleges for Chinese, schools for Negroes, etc., but I would first endeavor to help the halt and the maimed, the poor of my own race, and blood, the poor farmers of my own country who are bled to death year after year by your damnable Wall street gamblers.

"THE great prosperity the newspapers 'blow' about is only with a few, for the masses of the United States of America are suffering from poverty today as they have not suffered before in a long time. It is true, many working people ride around in cheap motor vehicles, who are letting their grocery bills, furniture bills, clothing bills, etc., go unpaid, and in this way they put on an air of prosperity, when if they had their debts paid they would not have a dime to buy a cup of coffee with. I myself am working for $27 per week, when if we had real prosperity I would be drawing $50 to $75 per week. I can't even own a driver on my salary, and take care of an aged mother.

"I believe a man has the right to become immensely rich, if he can go on so honestly, but I declare that he has not this right if he is going to accumulate his millions by 'bonneting' our government and the world masses out of their millions and then receive credit and praise for it."

HOW long will it be before rich men succeed in overcoming and dissipating such sentimental

(Copyright, 1928, by B. C. Forbes.)

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Grain prices were on the downgrade today and wheat touched the lowest price level of the week. One of the heaviest factors was an estimate from a leading trade expert that the United States farmers have a production surplus of wheat to be marketed, as against 200,000,000 bushels a year ago. Domestic demand, however, for wheat from North America was somewhat improved, but the hope today totaling about 500,000 bushels.

Wheat closed weak 3c to 1¼c net lower, with corn 3/4c to 1c down, oats also at a decline and provisions varying from 10c setback to a rise of 3c.

Corn opened higher in the absence of any selling pressure, but afterward reacted sharply, afterward to the effect of corn in Chicago today were larger than cars. On the other hand, there were reports of some corn export business over night.

EVENING Stock Prices Drop SUN-TELEGRAPH Bank Stocks Higher MARKETS

STOCK MARKET TUMBLES IN FINAL HOUR

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The stock market, which went through one of the most sweeping reactions in recent years in yesterday's session, staged a remarkable come-back after a weak opening today. Early declines of 3 to 20 points were largely made up by mid-day, and a long list of issues were marked up 2 to 10 points above yesterday's final quotations in the afternoon trading. Sales were in enormous volume, with the ticker nearly half an hour behind the market at mid-day.

The recovery was stimulated by indications of easing credit conditions. Although call loans renewed at 10 per cent, the highest opening rate in eight years, a plentiful supply of funds appeared at that figure, leading to hopes of a lowering in the rate. Receipt of $5,000,000 in gold from Canada, coupled with predictions that the current inflow may reach $30,000,000, also helped to turn the tide of speculative sentiment.

Several of the large commission houses, which previously had been advising caution in the making of new commitments, took a bullish position on the market on the theory that yesterday's decline had corrected, at least temporarily, the weakened technical position of the market. A brisk demand for stocks developed from the "sold out bulls" who had been waiting for a favorable opportunity to get back into the market.

Radio, which broke 14 points at the opening to 381, rallied to 403; Montgomery Ward rallied from 379 to 393¼; A. M. Byers from 181¾ to 193¾; International Nickel from 265¼ to 270; Rossia Insurance from 242 to 248 and Fox Film from 90 to 96.

Wright Aeronautical led the recovery by soaring 10½ points above yesterday's final quotation. Packard Motors rebounded 9 points and Allied Chemical, the American Tobacco issues, Associated Dry Goods, Commercial Solvents, Curtiss Aeroplane, Chile Copper, General Electric, Johns Manville and Chrysler Motors sold 4 to 7 points above last night's final prices.

Rails also took a prominent part in the upswing. Northern Pacific, which is expected to increase its annual dividend from $5 to $6 a share this month, advanced 5 points and Erie common 4.

The call money rate dropped to 9 per cent at about 1:30 o'clock.

Prices slipped off in the final hour, despite the drop in call money to 9 per cent in contrast to yesterday afternoon's 12 per cent rate. Radio, after advancing 22 points from its low point to 403, a net gain of 8, fell back 26 points to 376, a net loss of 19 points. St. Louis Southwestern suffered a net loss of 7 points, and Wright slumped 8 points from its early top. Pivotal issues generally sagged 2 to 5 points from their best figures of the day. U. S. Steel fell more than four points under yesterday's close. The closing was heavy. Total sales aggregated 5,390,000 shares.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Activity was chiefly on the selling side in early bond market trading today. Declines ran as great as 6 points, although most of them were confined to fractions, a few issues made small gains, but the general list yielded to selling encouraged by credit conditions and the break on the stock market.

Andes copper 7s led the early decline with a loss of 6 points. Colon Oil 6s, Public Service of New Jersey 4½s, Barnsdall 6s, Loew's 6s and Pan-American Petroleum 6s showed declines of 1 to 3 points. International Cement 5s, a few sugar issues, American Telephone 4s and Columbia Gas and Electric 5s moved upward against the trend, but turnovers and gains were small. Rails generally sought lower levels.

The foreign list was easier.

United States Government obligations were somewhat improved.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States government bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Fay King Plans Winter of Travel Via Radio Right at Home

By FAY KING

"IT WON'T be long now" for us folks that like our travel by our own fireside!

Many of us have been reading travel books for years, thinking about all the wonderful places there are in the world to see, but hesitated to go abroad, not because we thought the boat would sink, but because we couldn't bear the thought of not seeing taxis and skyscrapers for a week or more.

Personally, I have been hoping somebody would invent a cork bridge and we could taxi over. But, as they say, even the mountain will finally come to them who wait, and it looks now as if the Alps will soon come trooping in on the radio with vision attachment. So, why leave home?

4 NEW STOCKS LISTED ON EXCHANGE

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

FUTURE activity on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange will be increased by the listing of the stocks of four additional companies whose applications were approved by directors yesterday. A large volume of further new listings is believed to be in prospect. This has been one factor in the skyrocketing prices of memberships, which have reached a new high for all time.

Fourth avenue expects an active market in Plymouth Oil, whose 1,050,000 shares will be traded on the local board soon. These are also listed on the New York Curb, but local brokers believe that a large share of the market will be here.

The other listings consist of stocks of local companies which recently were offered to the public for the first time. These were 100,000 shares of no par stock of the Pittsburgh Investment Securities Corporation; 24,000 shares of cumulative convertible preference stock and 36,000 shares of no par common stock of the Fruett, Schaffer Company; 10,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock and 54,072 shares of no par common stock of the Liberty Dairy Products Company.

EUROPE is still faced with a housing shortage similar to the one in this country following the war. While a boom in building activity here quickly corrected the situation, high construction costs abroad and tardiness in the resumption of industrial activity permitted living conditions to go from bad to worse in many European countries.

Germany has been compelled to turn to governmental aid and American financing to give its workers suitable living quarters.

Dillon, Read and Company yesterday announced an issue of $4,600,000 of Ruhr Housing Corporation 6½ per cent first mortgage sinking fund bonds. The proceeds, together with $1,904,000 to be secured from a second mortgage sold to the Prussian Ministry for Public Welfare, will be used to build houses supplying a total of 3,000 apartments.

THESE will be leased to five large German industrial corporations which will conduct the dwellings to their employes. The entire amount of the first mortgage bond issue is guaranteed individually by each of the corporations.

The seriousness of the housing problem in Germany can be seen from the fact that one German family out of 15 lacks a home. Even before the war German living conditions were crowded. While in New York the average was 20 persons living in one building, in London it was nine and in Berlin 75.

The present trend in most European cities is toward the small one or two-family house and away from the tenement. To save building costs, uniformity of design is now the rule so that row after row of identical dwellings are doing injury to the artistic sense of those who mourn the passing of quaint foreign communities. "At the same time," says one writer, "the American bathtub civilization is making inroads into the continent." The movement towards standardization has, at least, some compensations.

THE decision to be made by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the right of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis, the New York Central and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads to retain their holdings of the stock of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railway will have an important bearing on the future prospects of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

Oral arguments were held this week to determine whether the purchase of 17 per cent interest by each of the roads constituted a violation of the Clayton act. Pittsburgh and West Virginia has an application before the commission for the right to acquire control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie so that a decision requiring the other carriers to sell their stock might open the way for the local road to strengthen its position.

It is unlikely, however, that any great progress in railroad consolidation will be made for some time since the commission has confessed its inability to formulate a general plan and the transportation act will not allow it to sanction mergers until this is done.

Welfare Fund Now Set To Carry On for Humanity

The Welfare Fund now is a going organization, permanently established, with headquarters in room 404, Chamber of Commerce. It is now engaged in the first activities of the regular routine that marks its debut as an agency of philanthropy, to a large extent representative of Pittsburgh's heart for humanity. Its first campaign for the means of carrying on the work of its 25 constituent member societies is history, but echoes follow in the receipt of many additional subscriptions daily in the mails. Several thousand dollars have been received since the drive ended.

Thus Pittsburgh makes another step forward. The women and men who worked hard and faithfully to bring about a new way of financing welfare activities rest from their labors, but the structure they have erected stands as a monument to their efforts. In a year the Welfare Fund has grown from a proposal to a fact. We feel that in another year it will have developed from an experiment into a widely recognized necessity.

Million More Allotted For Postoffice Here

The proposed new Pittsburgh Federal Building, for which $6,325,770 has been authorized, may be well under way before the end of 1929. This is indicated by the fact that $1,000,000 for it is included in appropriations for the postoffice department next year, pending in the House. If passed this will make $1,300,000 available, because $300,000 was appropriated for work this year and no money was expended.

Plans for the structure have not been decided upon and before they are the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh will be heard in Washington. It is indicated that this will not be until after the first of the year.

Our vision of a new postoffice within a year or so after the federal government acquired the site in Grant street appears to have been too optimistic. It has been years since a site for a new federal building was acquired in upper Liberty avenue. So many years, in fact, that when the government and the Pennsylvania Railroad made a trade of properties it was assumed that the postoffice department wanted immediate results. That was a couple of years ago and the only improvement of the new site has been the preparation of it as a parking lot, for which it was rented.

The department has the site, $300,000, promise of $1,000,000 more and an idea. Just when they will bear fruit is a mystery, but there MAY be action in 1929. Don't make the wagers too large, though.

Cheap Christmas Trees Suggest Braver Show

Arrival of the first shipment of Christmas trees, stimulating as it is to youthful imagination, is of less consequence to the head of the family than the statement of the produce men that the visual center of Santa Claus' great show is to be lower in price than in previous years. It also is said that the trees are to be of better quality than usual. Both of these statements are cheering.

If trees are to be plentiful and cheap it is likely that more families will have two, one in the house and one outside, on the lawn or porch. For several years the outside tree has been growing in favor. Last year some parts of the city, having ample lawn space, presented charming views at night, when gaily trimmed trees were illuminated with electric lamps of varied colors. Many of the trees were a permanent part of the landscaping of the dwelling, but use also was made of the temporary tree, which has the advantage of being movable to the exact position desired.

The outside tree represents a pretty fancy. It is the flag of Saint Nicholas and his friends only pay him due honor by displaying it bravely at Yuletide.

Way Eased for Building Of Nicaraguan Canal

By his friendly call upon four of the five republics of Central America our President-elect has undoubtedly eased the way for the United States to begin the building of a second interoceanic canal before he leaves the White House.

Nicaragua contains within its boundaries the route which is generally admitted to be, next to the Panama route, the most feasible for such a waterway.

Permanent and exclusive right to construct a canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific Nicaragua granted to the United States by the Bryan-Chamorro treaty which we ratified in 1916.

Nothing so enthuses the whole people of Nicaragua as the hope that the United States will soon exercise that right and begin canal construction. Nothing would more benefit the Nicaraguans and also their neighbors.

Fears that their rights were not fully protected prompted several of the Central American republics, notably Salvador and Costa Rico, to protest against certain provisions in the Bryan-Chamorro treaty. That is why further diplomatic negotiations must be undertaken in the interest of Central American accord. These Mr. Hoover will be in an excellent position to steer to a successful conclusion by the time he becomes President.

Meantime the Congress at Washington should be doing its part to hasten the day when the United States can embark on this new service to the world. Several resolutions were introduced in the Senate during the last session dealing with the Nicaraguan Canal.

Senator Edge, of New Jersey, offered a resolution authorizing the President to direct the Secretary of War to survey the Nicaraguan Canal route and report to Congress. Another resolution by Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, went further and provided both for the survey and the building of the canal.

Surely there is time for Congress before adjournment to re-enforce Mr. Hoover's good work in Central America by agreeing upon a resolution which would make it possible for the government to bring up to date the old surveys made of the Nicaraguan route long ago and now to be found in the archives of the War Department.

Such a resolution at this time would show to all our Central American neighbors that we are genuine in our desire to co-operate with them toward the building up of their prosperity.

Such a resolution would also show that our government is awake to the fact that the time is not distant when the Panama Canal will be operating at its maximum capacity. When that time arrives the Nicaraguan Canal should be ready for business.

Roosevelt's administration distinguished itself by starting the building of the Panama Canal. Coolidge's administration hopes to start the Boulder Dam project before it leaves power. The Nicaraguan Canal may well be one of the big constructive tasks of the Hoover administration.

Tales That Are Told

Then He Bumped

MRS. SMART had two "stars" at her social gathering—Schpuntz, the pianist, and Bumpfeller, the phrenologist.

"Listen!" said Mrs. Smart, just before the latter entered the room. "I am going to let the professor feel Schpuntz's bumps. I'll wager he'll be able to tell that Schpuntz is a musician!"

Excitement ran high. Bumpfeller entered, and began playing a five-finger exercise that would have done credit to Schpuntz himself on the musician's classic head.

"Here," he began, "is a practical business man, a man of great common sense, with no nonsense about him. No wasteful arts for him! No wanderings in the realms of fancy! No dreamer of—"

He caught the hostess' pleading eye. She was playing scales upon her lap.

Non-Committal

AFTER returning from his first day at school the youthful Donald appeared to be restless. His mother noticed that he could not, or would not, sit still in one place, but kept wandering about the house, an object of abject woe.

"Aren't you feeling well, dear?" she inquired.

Before the boy could answer his father looked up from the evening paper.

"I know what's the matter. I expect you've had a whacking, eh, young man?" he remarked.

"I—I don't know, father," returned his youthful son. "I—I don't take any notice of what goes on behind me."

A Good Fit

A CAVALRY officer owned a pair of breeches of excellent cut. His batman coveted the garment in question and hoped to acquire them, especially as the breeches were old and not over clean.

But the owner had other ideas. He gave them to his batman and told him to clean them thoroughly, but the soldier-servant purposely made a bad job of the cleaning.

"H'm!" said the subaltern, with much displeasure. "You haven't made much of a job of this, Saunders. Have you tried ammonia?"

"Yes, sir," said the batman, eagerly, "and they fit me a treat."—London Tit-Bits.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was an actress out in Hollywood that didn't stay married very long the last time. Folks wondered about it. 'Course, there's nothing personal about this story, because saying that it was a Hollywood girl that didn't stay married very long ain't any better identification than a printed signature. Anyhow, this is how it come about. The new husband was a kind of an outspoken guy. The new wife was standing before the mirror, and she's been that way all morning, and he kinda wondered how she could stand it, because he wasn't blind and she wasn't so young any more.

"What you stand in front of the looking-glass all morning for?" he says.

"Why, I just can't help it, I reckon. My worst fault, Dearie, is vanity. I love to stand and think how beautiful I am."

"Why," he says, "I wouldn't call that vanity. That's a delusion."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WE were talking about the wreck of the Vestris.

"They say the captain went down with his ship," someone remarked. "That's according to sailor tradition; but don't you think it's a senseless tradition?"

Yes, I suppose it's senseless to expect a man to die with his ship, giving up his life for a vague point of honor. It certainly seems plumb against all our selfish, animal instincts.

WE EXPECT MEN TO DO THINGS LIKE THAT.

WE DESPISE THEM IF THEY DON'T.

AND OUT OF THE WHOLE HUMAN RECORD WE REVERENCE MOST THOSE ACTS OF "SENSELESS SACRIFICE" FOR PRINCIPLE.

Now, why should such inconsistency run clear through our history? Why should man, that stupid, cruel, selfish cousin to the ape, suddenly forget his cowardice and greed and risk everything he has, even his life, for some person or principle he loves?

If just one or two had done it you might call it impulse or insanity. But when millions have done it—when even the lowest man is born with the longing to be great enough to do it—what do you make of that? How can you line that up with the law of self-preservation?

Why should a man hang on a cross or burn at a stake or rot among lepers when he might give up his fool notions, get a regular job and sit pretty for the rest of his life?

Why should a man drudge away his life in an office to take care of a nagging wife and a bunch of ungrateful youngsters when he might be roistering, free, in every port of the Seven Seas?

Yet men do these things—do them doggedly, as though some law were at work in them which they could not resist.

Well—perhaps there is!

We say it's senseless to throw one's life away—that it's against the law of self-preservation. But just what IS self-preservation?

Does it only mean preserving the body, or does it perhaps mean preserving something infinitely more precious than the body—something that will persist when the body has died heroically on the cross or drowned in the ocean or withered in an office?

Aren't we really fighting for our lives—for our greater lives—when we throw our lives away?

THE MOON PUZZLE

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Although I was taught many things about the moon, sun, stars, seasons, signs and the beauties of nature by my father, who lived his complete life in the country near the hills, I never asked him the following question; but during the past few years I have asked some intelligent friends who were unable to answer, or else turned it to humor, saying it was the sun between us and the moon, or that the moon simply GREW from new to full, which, of course, was ridiculous, though I believed that when a small child. So, still not knowing, I come to you to ask: what causes the moon to increase and decrease in size, or what comes between us and the moon, hiding a portion of it?—Mrs. W. H., Patterson, N. J."

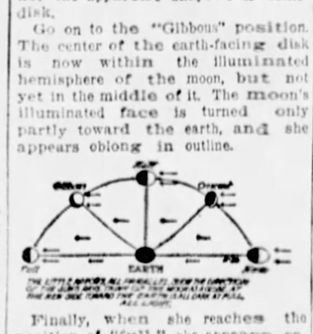
"Ah, would some god the giftie gi' us,
To make imagination hi' us."

IF you would only see the moon as being round, instead of flat—a ball instead of a disk—the mystery would instantly clear away. I have often drawn diagrams to help in this matter; I will now try a slight variation. Read what is said under the diagram and, in addition, what is said here. Call freely on the imagination to help you make the moon appear (as it is) in the form of a solid globe, the same in every position in which it is represented.

At New Moon the sun shines only on that half of the lunar globe which is turned away from the earth. Consequently the moon, having no light of her own, and being, moreover, at the time "in the eye of the sun," is invisible from the earth. She then swings away to the "crescent" position. Now the center of her disk, as seen from the earth, is yet in darkness, but a part of her illuminated hemisphere comes into view on the right. (Don't stop thinking of her as a globe and not a flat circle).

Follow her next to the "Half Moon" position. Now the center of the moon's disk as seen from the earth lies exactly on the line between daylight and darkness on the moon and her enlightened hemisphere being seen edgewise, gives her the apparent shape of a half-disk.

Go on to the "Gibbous" position. The center of the earth-facing disk is now within the illuminated hemisphere of the moon, but not yet in the middle of it. The moon's illuminated face is turned only partly toward the earth, and she appears oblong in outline.



Finally, when she reaches the position of "full," she appears exactly opposite to the sun in the sky, and what we see is the whole of her illuminated half, the center of her earth-facing disk being now in the middle of the illuminated part.

In following the moon around thus, you must not only use your imagination to make her appear in the form of a globe, but also to make the flat paper appear as three-dimensional space, having not only length and breadth, but depth, so that the moon recedes into the background as she passes from new to half, and begins to approach again in moving from half to full. The other half of her monthly journey around the earth, if represented, would carry her out of the plane of the paper toward the spectator.

Remember that science as well as poetry needs the imagination; poetry gives it more freedom, but science uses the reins carefully—or is supposed to do so. There are always some reckless riders for a spirited steed.

Bible Passages

God's Protection

(Psalm 3)

LORD, how are they increased that trouble me! many are they that rise up against me.

Many there be which say of my soul, There is no help for him in God. Selah.

But thou, O Lord, art a shield for me; my glory, and the lifter up of mine head.

I cried unto the Lord with my voice, and he heard me out of his holy hill. Selah.

I laid me down and slept; I awaked; for the Lord sustained me.

I will not be afraid of ten thousands of people, that have set themselves against me round about.

Arise, O Lord; save me, O my God: for thou hast smitten all mine enemies upon the cheek bone; thou hast broken the teeth of the ungodly.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

His Humble Prayer

HE voiced always an humble prayer,
"Dear Lord," he said,
"Grant me from out your loving care
Some labor that will yield my share
Of daily bread,

"And strength to do this labor well
I ask of Thee."
This was his prayer, nor could he tell,
As from his lips the accents fell,
How wise his plea.

For with man's daily toil God sends
A boundless gain:
The triumph honest labor lends,
Tired hands, deep peace, these make amends
For any pain.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Thoughts while strolling: New York has—look 'em over—more carelessly dressed taxi drivers than any other big city. George Gershwin's fighting jaw. A yacht club flagship. Those corner clocks are never right. Capt. Jim Churchill dining at Schrafft's. Walter Catlett, my favorite clown.

The new $1-a-pound candy store in the Savoy-Plaza—and boxes priced up to $300, too. Frank Sullivan is growing stout. The dolorous and depressing moo of a crated calf. More electrical shoe shine parlors. Marjorie Oelrichs, who thinks European men are nicer—walking with her mamma. Editor E. D. Coblentz. One of my 300 or so bosses.

Robert C. Benchley, a Worcester (Mass.) boy, who made good in the city. Retired business men who spend the day in branch brokerage offices. Muttering old men picking up pins and strings. Nothing so fascinating to a boy as an abandoned building. A famous cigaret-indorsing athlete, smoking a pipe. Treason!

A lady with a perfumed and be-ribboned sleeve dog. Poor little pup. A "School of Concentration." Fine homes boarded up again for winter. Aristocratic pool halls known as "billiard academies." Sign: "Eat by System." I'll bite, what's the system? Watterson Rothacker, who retired at 40, a millionaire.

Lee Shubert and his Boswell, C. P. Greneker. Wonder how many terminal hotels there are in New York? More of those fake "twins" in flaming red. And I'm fed up on hatless boys with greased hair. Hard to please, but good to my folks. Barbers who go to symphony concerts. Sheiks around the dance hall entrances.

That Marx brother with the black mustache. Who looks like F. P. A. Burlesque show announces a "Garter Night." Horace Liveright, the publisher. Those theatrical hotels where you always hear the jangle of pianos, snatches of song or the patter of dance steps. Theodore of the Ritz.

Jo Jo, a singing waiter of old Bowery days. Now in a broadway play. Some of the young men who used to sport the long sideburns are now turning to slim Van Dykes. An institution for double chin treatment. Paging Paul Whiteman. Roof top publishers and skylight physical culture studios.

The tearing down of the Herald Building marks the fadeout of another illustrious Broadway landmark. In the old days, with its sidewalk view of roaring presses, it was a high spot of the thoroughfare. Along the cornices at night were solid rows of solemn owls blinking green eyes, and through the windows could be seen the scurry and confusion of the worst heckled editorial staff in this or any one else's town. Then the Herald moved and the little triangular square became a scene of sudden desolation. Various merchandising enterprises struggled there for brief periods and expired. The difficulty in crossing the streets to reach Herald Square did much to doom it.

"GOOD OLD DAYS"

By Herbert Kaufman

LET'S back-pedal a few years and see how far we've come. In 1698, conditions in Scotland were so appalling that 200,000 wretches, even in that underpopulated land, begged from door to door or lived on murder and robbery.

There wasn't a schoolhouse or hospital above Edinburgh. But, for that matter, Sweden did not produce a physician until 1563.

Cardan, one of the greatest scholars of that time, trained his children by systematic starvation, drove lessons home with a bludgeon, appointed back-breaking tasks to teach them humility, and punished the minor disobedience of a son by cropping his ears.

Two patients once lay in each hospital bed.

There wasn't a surgeon in a single medieval army, and those in civil life performed amputations without anesthetic and seared the stumps with hot irons or boiling pitch.

Bleeding and purging were panaceas for every disease.

Governments regularly furnished criminals for vivisection. Experimental medicine used these live subjects with no more compunction or mercy than a perverse child tearing flies apart.

Hot lead was poured down prisoners' throats and men were imprisoned, mind you, in many countries, without process of trial or benefit of counsel.

Butchers washed putrid meat with new blood and sold carrion and plague-infested animals.

One person of out 14 died of smallpox. The first stove did not appear until the seventeenth century. Filth and squalor ran riot within castle walls and sewage ran through open ditches in Paris and London.

The total absence of conveniences and humanities in yon "good old days" should furnish reflective antidotes for at least a few of the discontents we feel with our times.

You picked the best century of all to live in—if you don't believe it, ask history.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

HINTS for men who are being led to the altar:

Don't marry a girl who envies other women.

Don't marry one who will not put herself out to accommodate members of her family, friends or business associates.

If a girl refuses to have company at her house because it is too much work, but is always anxious to go to the homes of other people, she will be unwilling to entertain your friends after marriage.

Don't take a girl's word about loving children. Take her to visit people who have some and see how she acts.

Girls who spend the major part of their time making up their faces and talking clothes and shopping, are not good matrimonial bets.

If a girl is impatient with sick people, and doesn't want to be around them, think what home would be like if you were ill for any length of time.

A girl who will use some of her spending money to buy presents for others is not going to be too selfish in her home life.

I know one wife who goes through toy departments buying things for the children of her in-laws, and makes curtains for the rooms of her nephews at college, and sent a boy a map of Lindbergh's flight the other day, and who finds out what her husband's relatives and friends like to eat, and manages always to have that when they come to dine.

She is happy, and her husband is happy, and the longer he lives with her the happier they are going to be. She is weaving the tightest kind of web around that man's heart.

I know a man who thought a girl was marrying him for his money and he told her he lost it all and she married him anyway. They are happy, but she has never quite forgiven him the deceit. He was such a cynic he wanted to be sure, but it was a dangerous experiment. There were other ways of finding out.

More men are married for money today than ever before. There are fewer men and there is more money.

If a girl is ashamed to tell her friends that you gave her only that simple present, she is a show-off and real deep affection doesn't mean a great deal to her.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

WHAT is your reaction when you read something of a critical nature which seems to be aimed at you particularly?

Does it anger you?

Do you feel like throwing away the paper or magazine?

Do you call the writer names and wind up by saying he is a "mutt" or something worse?

Why do you become angry when you read such a story?

Isn't it because it presents you as you know that you are?

It is the truth of the article that hurts you.

You see yourself in a true and disagreeable light.

But isn't it a good thing to know that you are looking upon that way by others, if you do the particular things mentioned?

After you read isn't there a desire to improve?

If someone years ago had pictured you truly to yourself it might have made some changes in your character.

It is not too late now, and a change in you would be welcomed by your family and your friends.
